"STARVE AMERICANS," NEW MEXICAN CRY

HERE IS HOW OUR OWN ELEONORA LOOKS AT THE POLO BATTLE

Very newest photograph of Miss Eleonora Sears, an enthusiast for the American team in the polo matches.

Eleonora Sears is closely following the discussion in the Polo Association in New York as to changes to be made in the American polo team which will meet the Englishmen in the second match of the cup series tomorrow at Meadow Brook.

It is forecasted Malcolm Stevenson will replace Rene La Montagne, who played No. 1 Saturday when the American four suffered such a crushing defeat.

Miss Sears is a polo player herself—has played at Newport and elsewhere, donning masculine riding costume for the occasion. She is an expert on the fine points of the game, and is a friend of Harry Payne Whitney, the old-time polo chiftal.

Sh was bitterly disappointed at defeat in the first game. She was one of the most notable figures at the match—wearing a dark suit of monkish cut, with the long overskirt that has come with the Summer fashions. She plans to attend the match tomorrow, and will be among the keen boosters of the American team.

Oldest Voter Dies.

PROVIDENCE, June 15.—Calvin Wilbur, the State's oldest voter, is dead today, aged ninety-eight years.

DIDN'T LIKE KISSING

FUNSTON'S TROOPS IN NEW PERIL

By THOMAS P. COATES.
Special Staff Correspondent of the American.

VERA CRUZ, June 15.—"Starve out the Americans," is the order issued by General Navarette, the Mexican Federal commander, to the officers of the troops gathered west of Vera Cruz.

Copies of a circular sent to all his subordinates by Navarette reached American headquarters here today. This circular orders the Mexican officers to prevent cattle and food supplies reaching the American lines.

Ever since the Americans seized Vera Cruz the Mexicans have been trying to cut off sources of supplies, but the circular from Navarette is the first official order that has been given. It provides that every native who shall refuse to obey the orders of the Mexican officers shall be hanged.

At present there is no danger of a food shortage here, but if the Mexicans succeed in establishing an efficient food blockade, the situation may become serious, as General Funston would be obliged to depend upon supplies brought by sea.

PLAN FLIGHT OF HUERTA ON BOARD A JAPANESE SHIP

By CHARLES MICHELSON.

VERA CRUZ, June 15.—Startling developments today shifted the centre of greatest Federal activity to the west coast, in the vicinity of Guadalajara, with every indication that the operations means preparations for the exit of Huerta, via Manzanillo, probably aboard some Japanese ship.

Reports from Mexico City are to the effect trat 9,000 Federals are occupying Guadalajara, with 5,000 more at Sayula, a short distance south. The latter are occupied in frantic efforts to repair breaks in the railroad leading to Manzanillo. Generals Obregon and Blanco, with 9,000 Rebels, are menacing Guadalajara with headquarters at Ameca and reinforcements at Tepic, across the mountain range.

The Federals are so anxious to defend Guadalajara that 3,000 men of the San Luis rotosi garrison have been withdrawn and rushed there. This is significant in view of the fact that San Luis Potosi is the onty barrier intervening in the way of the Rebel advance toward Mexico City from the north, and is daily threatened by Villa's forces.

The Federals also are concentrating their efforts on the maintainance of the railway line from Mexico City to Guadalajara, thence to Manzanillo.

It is estimated that of the 132,000 population of Guadalajara, fully ninety per cent. have pronounced Rebel leanings.

LOBSTERS, LETTUCE AND LOVE

Stanley T. Googins, Winthrop yachtsman, took the stand today for cross-eamination in defence against the divorce suit brought by his wife. Mrs. Googins names Elizabeth Cormerais, a Brookline dancing teacher, who lives at No. 196 Harvard street, Brookline. Googins is a member of the Cottage Park Yacht Club.

"When was the last time you kissed your wife?" Attorney Patten asked him today.

"Last January," Googins replied. "It was just before I started for Panama. It was just a case of necessity. I didn't want to do it."

DENIES CHARGES.

He went on to deny the charges made against him—the charges of intimacy with Miss Cormerais. He nver kissed her, he said, nor allowed her to kiss him. He took her lobsters, lettuce and candy, "but then," he added, "I take candy wrerever I go."

"Have you any here today" the attorney asked. "No," said Googins.

Q.—Were you ever on terms of familiarity with Miss Cormerais? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever kiss Cormerais? A.—No, never.

Q.—The detective said you kissed her goodby on the porch that night they watched you there. A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you ever allow her to kiss you? A.—No, never.

A.—You mean oo say you took her lobster and lettuce and chocolates in your little handbag, but took no kisses in return for all these gifts? A.—Never.

Q.—What was your object in calling on Miss Cormerais? A.—To pacify her and her mother.

Q.—To pacify her? A.—Yes, she and her mother had received anonymous letters and telephone messages connecting my name with that of Miss Cormerais and I wanted to explain.

Q.—When was this? A.—On my return from Panama. I telephoned Miss Cormerais to apologize for not attending her last reception at the Cottage Park Yacht Club. She then told me of receiving anonymous letters and phone calls. She said she wanted to see me. That was the reason for my first visit to her.

NEVER SENT VALENTINE.

Q.—Did you ever send her a valentime? A.—No.

He was shown an entry in his diary, the one word "Valentine," under February 12, but he could not remember what that meant.

Q.—Did you give your wife any Christmas present last year? A.—No, but she could have had one if she wanted it.

Q.—Did she give you anythin? A.—Yes, and expensive leather traveling bag. It isn't paid for yet.

Q.—When did you last kiss your wife? A.—Last January when I left for Panama. It was a case of necessity. I didn't want to.

Q.—Did you love your wife after you met Miss Cormerais? A.—No.

THAW BAIL PETITION IS DENIED

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Harry K. Thaw's petition to be admitted to bail was denied today by the United States Supreme Court. As a result he will be unable to go where he pleases until final argument is had on the appeal of the State of New York from the decision of Federal Judge Aldrich of New Hampshire, sustaining in principle the habeas corpus proceedings which Thaw instituted in New Hampshire to obtain his freedom.

When the chief justice announced the order in the case ex-Governor William A. Stone and Merrill Shurtleff, of counsel for Thaw, were in court.

If the Thaw lawyers hope to take any further steps at present, they will have to submit their proposition to some one of the justices in chambers, as the court adjourned until next Monday without hearing any further motions.

'Tut Tut,' Says Judge Fallon to 'Vagrant'

Ten men, for sleeping on the greensward, near the new pier, Summer street extension, were sentenced today to the poor farm at Bridgewater by Judge Fallon in the South Boston court. Patrick Lee, who was numbered with them, was found guilty of being a vagrant, though he had $8 tucked away in his trousers pocket "How am I a vagrant," he asked the judge. "Tut, tut, we want no arguing in this court," was the reply.

Douglas Is Held by Newark Court for the Grand Jury

NEWARK, N. J., June 15.—Kenneth D. Douglas, former social service worker and religious editor of the Newark Evening News, was arraigned today before City Judge Hahn on charges of perjury and obtaining money under false pretences. He entered a plea of not guilty and was held for the Grand Jury in $3,000 bail.

The perjury charge was made against Douglas by Frank Crissey, marriage license clerk of Newark. He alleged that Douglas swore it was his first marriage when he took out a license to marry Miss Marjorie Stoneman, a Wellesley graduate. It subsequently developed that he had been divorced.

Call Off School Strike at Saugus

The 200 pupils of the Saugus schools who threatened a "strike" today decided to remain at their studies after having been advised to do so by former High School Principal James F. Butterworth. The threatened strike was the result of the resignation of Mr. Butterworth, who had a disagreement with the school board. The pupils have been promised that they will mh mh mh mh

"Sailing! Sailing!
Over the Bounding Main"

Hundreds upon hundreds of yachtsmen in and around Boston read the American. "Main 5180" is opportunity's telephone number should they want to buy or sell a boat.

That's the quickest way to connect with the Want Ad columns of the Boston American.

All kinds of seaworthy craft, from a sloop-yacht to a rowboat, successfully seek new ownership through this channel, and to the mutual advantage of both parties to the transaction.

It's simply a matter of putting your want or your offering on paper—stating price and specifications clearly—and leaving the ad with any of the American's Want Ad Stations, the branch office at 264 Washington Street, main office at 80 Summer Street, or

FOLK INTIMATES U. S. SENATOR GOT BIG NEW HAVEN CHECK

WASHINGTON, June 15.—That proof has been secured that a U. S. Senator had accepted a $1,000,000 check from the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad was intimated by Chief Counsel Joseph W. Folk of the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

Details as to this transaction are being kept secret by Mr. Folk, but probably will be revealed within a short time and cause one of the greatest sensations that has ever startled the country.

"If I should tell you that a U. S. Senator accepted a million dollar check from the New Haven Railroad, the cat would be out of the bag so I won't give you any names or details," said Mr. Folk, when asked for information concerning developments in the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad investigation.

Folk then told a story of how the Lieutenant-Governor of Missouri had confessed to him some years ago that he had accepted bribes. Folk said he told the story in confidence to some friends.

"That story leaked out a few days later, and therefore, I will not repeat my action in telling stories too big to keep," he added.

Folk's statement was considered significant in view of the fact that Examiner Brown of the Interstate Commerce Commission returned suddenly from New York Sunday to lay before the commission's chief counsel revelations from the books of J. P. Morgan & Co.

Charles S. Hamlin Chosen on Federal Reserve Board

WASHINGTON, June 15.—It was learned definitely at the White House today that the personnel of the Federal Reserve Board will be as follows: Paul Warburg of New York, Adolph P. Miller of San Francisco, W. C. P. Harding of Birmingham, Ala., Thomas J. Jones of Chicago, Charles S. Hamlin of Boston, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Comptroller of the Currency Williams. President Wilson will not nominate a governor of the board at this time.

Favor Wellington Bridge Measure

The legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs held a hearing today on the bill presented on petition of Representative E. Haines of Medford to provide for the immediate reconstruction of the portion of the Wellington bridge that was recently destroyed by fire. No opposition to immediate reconstruction was in evidence. Representative Haines and Representative Greenwood of Everett, Toown Counsel Marton of Reading, Mayor Shumaker of Malden and others were recorded in favor.

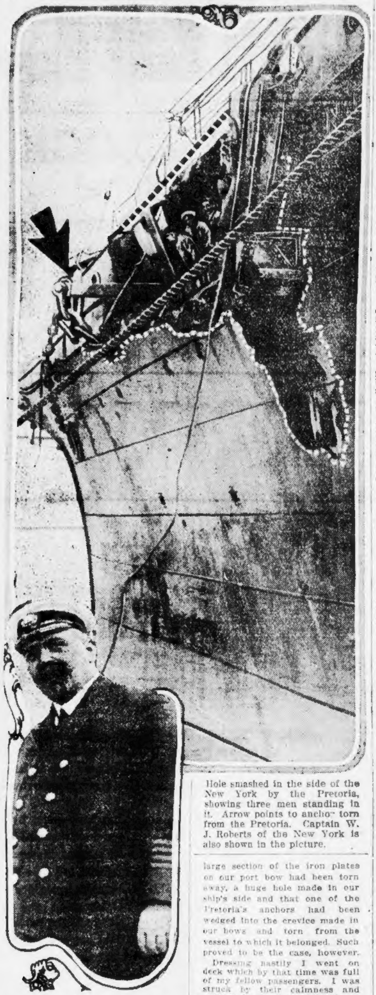
'FATHER' CLARK GIVES PRAISE TO CREW IN OCEAN LINER CRASH



Hole smashed in the side of the New York by the Pretoria, showing three men standing in it. Arrow points to anchor torn from the Pretoria. Captain W. J. Roberts of the New York is also shown in the picture.

Dr. Francis E. Clark of Newton, president of the World's Christian Endeavor Union, was expected to return to Boston today from New York where he landed from the steamer New York which was in collision with the Hamburg American liner Pretoria, 400 miles at sea.

There were some fifty other Boston people on the ship. They join with Dr. Clark in praising the courage and coolness of the officers of the New York from Captain Roberts down.

At the Boston offices of the company it was announced today that repairs are being rushed on the New York so that she may be able to sail on Friday as per schedule.

Dr. Clark lead a service of thanksgiving as the New York passed Fire Island coming into port. There was scarcely a dry eye as "Nearer My God to Thee" was sung and the kneeling passengers gave thanks that they were not numbered among the victims of another great sea disaster.

Captain Roberts of the New York asserted today that the Pretoria was twenty-five miles off her course when the crash came, and that his own ship was going astern.

He had slowed down and stopped, closing all bulkhead doors, when the fog shut in.

Here is the story of the collision as told by Dr. Clark:

By DR. FRANCIS E. CLARK,
President World's Christian Endeavor Union.

The collision with the Pretoria occurred at 3:10 a. m. I was awakened by the stopping of the engines and the backing of the ship. The fog was extremely dense. Listening, I heard our own foghorn at regular and short intervals.

Soon another foghorn sounded even louder and of a deeper bass. The sound of the approaching horn grew louder and more distinct, and at last, about ten minutes after I awoke, I felt the impact of the other vessel and knew that she had struck us.

The blow did not, however, seem to be very violent, and I could not believe at first that a large section of the iron plates on our port bow had been torn away, a huge hole made in our ship's side and that one of the Pretoria's anchors had been wedged into the crevice made in our bows and torn from the vessel to which it belonged. Such proved to be the case, however.

Dressing hastily I went on deck which by that time was full of my fellow passengers. I was struck by their calmness and courage in the face of imminent danger. There was no panic, little excitement even. Many had on their life preservers, but soon found there would be little use for them. The officers and crew from the captain to the youngest deck boy, were at their posts cool, collected and ready for any emergency.

The bulkhead doors had been closed when the fog set in, and the rent in our ship's side was soon patched up with mattresses and canvas and later with more substantial materials.

BOOTBLACKS STRIKE; GREEK SHINERS STAY

The bootblacks are on strike again in Boston. War was declared today. The strikers demand a minimum wage of $9 a week and tips. They also want to quit work at 1 p. m. on all holidays.

President Biagio Carbone of the Bootblacks' Union said twelve shops had signed the new agreement, but eighty or more refused. One hundred and fifty wielders of the brush struck this morning.

Patrons of quite a few downtown shops had to hunt for a place for a shine. The chief obstacle appeared to be a race issue. The Italians promptly responded to the call, but the Greek operatives wouldn't.

Nearly 100 Italian bootblacks marched in a body to the Old South parlors on Milk street and to the large emporium on School street, near Washington street.

The massed in the street and shouted "Come out! Come out!" But Greek members of the craft kept right on polishing and customers seemed anxious to get out. A police squad was on hand, but there was no disturbance.

Since the strike a year ago the price of shines in many shops has been boosted from 5 to 10 cents to meet the altered wage scales, but the rank and file of bootblacks are dissatisfied. Under the old system tips were all turned into the firm and a division of spoils was made, the boss being the biggest gainer. In shops where ten cents is charged tips have fallen off. Few realized when they gave tips that the man who perspired over the job in hot weather did not get them.

Gas Poisoning of Keene, N. H., Teacher Called a Mystery

PHILADELPHIA, June 15. — Declared by her friends to have been accidental, the poisoning by gas of Miss Harriet L. Mason of Keene, N. H., instructor in English at Drexel Institute, was today considered a mystery by the police. Miss Mason may recover, although her condition is critical.

Dr. E. S. Saylor, who lives at the same address, smelled gas coming from Miss Mason's room. He found her unconscious on her bed. The gas jet was on full. Near the bed were newspapers.

Harvard Lampoon 'Scoops' Author of Class Day Ode

"Pittie" Potter, author of the senior ode at Harvard has been "scooped" and the ode, or rather a Class Day ade, is out ahead of schedule in the Class Day number of the Harvard Lampoon on Sale today. This is it:

THE DAY.

A senior pased in cap and gown,
With stately stride and solemn frown
Then I unto myself did say,
Ah, this is surely CLASS DAY.

A maiden passed, in pink bedight:
And whom her charms did greet my sight
I straightway to myself did say,
Ah, this is surely LASS DAY.

A youth did pass, all frattled up,
An empty, smug, hat-banded pup;
And I did cry aloud and say,
Ah, this I'm sure is ASS DAY.

Hearse Driver Who Killed Man Freed

Hartley Seaver, driver of the hearse that killed George H. Cady of Jamaica Plain, was cleared of blame today when the West Roxbury Court refused to issue a warrant charging him with manslaughter. Evidence showed that the accident was ounavoidable.

PREDICTS BIG DISASTER FROM NEW VOLCANO

RED BLUFF, Cal., June 15.—Mt. Lassen ninety miles south of the Oregon line and ninety miles west of the Nevada line, the world's newest volcano, sputtered again today.

What may come from her two new cones, which came into existence last night, or the third, which has been growing larger steadily since May 30, is a matter of much scientific conjecture.

Her activities, beginning with geyser-like steam clouds two weeks ago have augumented steadily, until a burst of smoke rising 2,000 feet was followed by a pillar of fire visible 100 down the Sacramento valley. W. H. Storms, former State mineralogist, who has arrived here to make observations, scouts the geyser theory.

"Indications are that Lassen will imitate the performance of Krakatoa, a volcano on the island of Java," he said.

"Krakatoa in 1883, after a few minor disturbances similar to Lassens present activity, burst into one tremendous explosion which destroyed the mountain and spread a pall of darkness over thousands of square miles.

"Geysers do not eject rocks, scoria, cinder and ashes. Lassen is in active and violent eruption."

Professor T. J. J. See, observer at Mare Island Navy Yard, a scientist of international reputation, said today:

"I hardly think the activity of Lassen will become so great as to produce eruptions of lava. It is likely to maintain a feeble and comparatively harmless activity. Lassen is 200 miles from the ocean, which is too far inland to become a source of much real danger. The really dangerous volcanoes depend on the leakage of the oceans and the formation of vast accumulation of steam beneath their roots. No volcano is now active over 125 miles from the ocean, and, as the study of the earth shows, they all die out inland. The chances of any real danger appear to me to be small."

Jesse Wright and J. H. Reagan of Redding, who today reached a point within three-quarters of a mile of the main crater, said they were enveloped in sulphurous fumes and saved themselves from suffocation by lying on their faces and digging into the ground.

Accused of Back Bay Burglaries

The men giving the names of Joseph Rolla and Frank Bianchi, arrested Sunday morning after a chase by motor boat and automobile along the Charles River on suspicion of being involved in Back Bay burglaries, were arraigned today in Roxbury before Judge Hayden. They were captured after the officers had driven them to bay with revolver fire. The cases were continued till June 17. They were held under $1,000 each.

Civil Service for Commerce Attaches

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The Senate today, by a vote of thirty to twenty-seven, adopted the Smoot amendment to the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bills placing all commercial attaches of the department of commerce under the civil service rules.

I. & M. REDUCE VORKING FORCE AND CUT TRAINS

he working force of the Boston & Iaine Railroad will be reduced 15 er cent. beginning next Monday. Thi fact became known when official of the road sent the division suprintendents the following order:

"'e are called upon to reduce our stato, clerical and yardmasters' forcs 15 per cent. Kindly advise me at once explaining how you intend to cover the work, and what par of the work must go undone who this order becomes effective."

Te only reason advanced for the reduction at the opening of the Summer season is that the automobile hasbecome so popular for Summer travel.

Wth the change many trains will be aken off the schedule and even trais that were recently put back on he Medford branch, will again be aken off. The entire reduction in te mileage of trains will aggregate 4,000 miles daily. In former yeas the schedule has been incresed in order to take care of the incrased passenger business.

SUBMIT 57 VARIETIES OF LOVE LETTERS IN CASE OF MRS. HOLMAN

HARTFORD, Ct., June 15.—The jury in the Holman conspiracy and abduction case was entertained this afternoon with the reading of samples of the packages of fifty-seven love letters written by the former wife of the Rev. Cranston Brenton to her present husband, Ernest Holman, some of them before she ever saw him.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. C. Holman is suing for $50,000, two prominent doctors, Paul Waterman and Oliver C. Smith, and the Rev. Brenton, who now resides in Yonkers, N. Y., as New York secretary of the Social Service Commission of the Episcopal Church, alleging they imprisoned her in a Vermont madhouse until she falsely confessed infidelity with Holman on July 3, 1912.

Counsel for both sides have agreed with Judge Edwin S. Thomas that not all the fifty-seven letters, some of them a thousand words long, must be read and the jury will get samples like this:

"MY HEART'S BEST BLOOD"

O, my babe—my heart's best blood. How thy little precious love letter warmed this heart. O, mine. You must write me no more until you write to tell me on what train to meet you, July 3. Dear God, Ernest, it makes your little "Marjorie Flemings' senses reel to think of seeing thee, my man, my mate, coming to meet me along that old station platform.

You see I love you so. Little weary child, I can't bear to take my arms from round you for one second. Emily's warning did send a pang to my poor captive, helpless, half-broken little heart, but I would not write all this to thee, my own, for I knew if any situation arose how my man would deal with it. I would not suggest to thee that thou or I ever needed a hint of warning. Oh, how proud I am of thee, single-hearted soul of mine, Ernest, I love you so, Ernest man, blessed husband. Life o' mine—— A little box goes to thee today that has in it one sardonyx. It is the birthstone for August, you know, babe love, and it means conjugal felicity.

Some time I want you to have it set for me, heart's beloved, and have the date August 12, 1908, inside it, please, lover boy, 'cause that's the day on which for thy wife? Guess thy wife has lost three of the four pounds she worked so hard to gain, and I shall not be able to make it up again with July 3d only 'bout "conjugal felicity" began for me, and I think for thee.

And that'll be the ring for her busy right hand. Want to do it three weeks away. Husband mine—to think of it—to dream of it.

Shall I, indeed, have thy kisses on my lips in three weeks? The weary little head and heart can hardly grasp that wonder fact sweet, sweet soul's joy that you are after these weeks and months, three years a babe of weary separation. But my little husband will love me just as much whether I am thin and pale or fat and rosy. Thank God, nothing can change the light in her dark eyes that shines for him alone or the hunger of her little mouth that has drooped so long for the blessed rain of his kisses—thy kisses. Shall I feel them again—truly—truly—O my man—my mate—O my love, God bring that hour safe and prolong it eternally.

Ernestkin's life, by Monday I hope to send you the revised first act of "The Norseman."

I have been so wretched I haven't done any real work on it, sweetheart, but it won't take long to make the changes we have in mind, my beloved mate, twin heart, twin mind, twin soul, twin body that you are of thy Bess—wife—girl.

Before returning to the trial today, Mrs. Holman talked freely and frankly at Springfield with a reporter for the AMERICAN.

Mrs. Holman and her second husband had been week-ending there taking auto and trolley rides and roaming in the "cool green woods."

NOT ASHAMED OF LETTERS.

Mrs. Holman is slight of figure, with big brown eyes and soft brown hair. She is thirty-three. Her husband is a couple of years older. He is stockily built, short, swarthy, with large black eyes.

It seemed to the interviewer—and he said so—that the most striking thing about the case was that Mrs. Holman should have brought the suit for damages when she knew that her love letters must be read to a crowd of gaping strangers.

"Perhaps it does seem strange," she said. "I knew when I brought suit that my letters would be blazoned to the world, but I did not care. I am not ashamed of them. He is not ashamed of them.

BRINGS SUIT TO SAVE MOTHER'S GOOD NAME

"My real purpose in suing has not been revealed in the hearing of the case. It is this: I want a vindication of my good name and I want my boy Jonathan, who is eight years old, and was given into the custody of Mr. Brenton at the time of our divorce.

"The confession I signed was not true. I hope the jury will believe this, grant me a verdict and in that way enable me to reopen the divorce proceedings and get my little son again."

Mrs. Holman said she was born in Hartford, the daughter of Dr. Jonathan Curtis, a prominent physician. Upon leaving the high school of that city she prepared for Bryn Mawr College, but took a fancy for opera and went to Italy to study music. Her voice proved to be a pleasing mezzo soprano, but lacked the volume the stage would require, so she returned to Hartford and devoted herself to writing.

"It was then I met Cranston Brenton," she said. "He was an instructor in English at Trinity College.

"I thought I loved him. So we became engaged in 1900.

WHEN SHE FIRST KNEW LOVE.

"Early in 1901 I wrote a little book which was privately published. It chanced to reach the office of a little newspaper in Taunton and fell into the hands of Ernest M. Holman. He reviewed it kindly and wrote me about it.

"We met and then I knew what love really was. I knew that I did not love Mr. Brenton, but loved Ernest. And he knew it, too, and loved me. But between us in our boy and girl sense of humor, stood my engagement to the minister. Foolishly we regarded that as an insuperable barrier and gave each other up.

"I married Mr. Brenton, and before long found that I never could be happy with him. I testified to the reason last week. Ernest, too, contracted an unfortunate marriage and was unhappy. Each learned that the other was miserable, but for long years, until 1907, we did not see each other, and did not even write.

"Then, knowing that I could not be content with Mr. Brenton even with my child in his house, I resumed the old correspondence with Ernest. These letters which were read last week in Hartford were written to him then. As I said before, I am not ashamed of them.

"We arranged that these letters should fall into the hands of Ernest's wife But she could not get a divorce through the letters alone, and Ernest gallantly permitted her to get other evidence which enabled them to separate.

"The letters were sent to Mr. Brenton. He knew that I was not happy with him, but his church would allow him to be divorced only on one ground—that I must be guilty. So he seized upon these letters. But they were not sufficient for a divorce. Then he influenced my mother to believe that I was insane and should be placed in an asylum.

"On September 3, 1912, Mr. Brenton told me he would like to have a final discussion of our marital difficulties. We had one. I believe he had two physicians within hearing. Within a few minutes there appeared Dr. Oliver C. Smith and Dr. Paul Waterman. These are the two codefendants with Mr. Brenton in the suits. A woman nurse appeared with them. They told me they were going to take me to a sanitarium.

"Dr. ——— (Mrs. Holman named the man) said, 'Don't you think the odds are rather against you?' I believed him to mean that physical force would be resorted to, and I concluded that I could probably escape from a sanitarium, so I agreed to go with them.

TAKEN TO SANITARIUM.

"They bundled me into a motor. We drove from Hartford to Springfield and from Springfield to Brattleboro, Vt., an all-day ride. I got no food. I was dazed when I got there.

"There was slipped into my hand a paper to sign. I did not read it—I signed it. I know now that it was a document, declaring that I was a voluntary patient. But I wasn't, I assure you."

Mrs. Holman gave a description of the asylum. Her room was barred and unlighted, she said. She could hear the shrieking of the lunatics.

On September 9, 1912, she said her husband came to her room and told her that the only way she could ever get out of the place was to sign two documents he had with him. One was the confession.

"It set forth that I was guilty of the one offence upon which an Episcopal minister may divorce his wife," said Mrs. Holman. "You understand what that is. I was willing at that moment to do anything on earth to be free.

"I signed both so that I might be free from that terrible place.

"I sued my husband for divorce on the ground of cruelty, which is sufficient in Connecticut. He charged me with infidelity. He produced the confession which was to this effect:

"'The act you charge was committed July 3.'

"I did not contest his evidence in the shape of the confession and he was awarded his divorce and the custody of the child.

"As soon as possible afterward Ernest and I were married. We are happy at last. The one remaining thing I want is my boy Jonathan."

MRS. ELIZABETH A. C. HOLMAN, who tells jury her own story of romance, in her $50,000 suit against two physicians and her former husband.

Aviator Henderson Lands with Balloon

DANVILLE, Ill., June 15.—William Burr Henderson, who went up in the balloon Springfield at Portland, Ore., last week, has landed safely, according to a telegram received today by his brother, an attorney here. While no mention was made of Pilot Donaldson of the same balloon, it is believed he is safe.

President Signs Tolls Repeal Bill

WASHINGTON, June 15.—President Wilson signed the Panama Canal tolls repeal bill at 10:59.

NO MORE J. D.'S OR MORGANS, IS MYERS' BELIEF

"No man in America will ever again accumulate the millions of a Rockefeller or a Morgan. There will be no repetition of the devil-engineering in finance such as we have had revealed to us in the New Haven Railroad expose without an upheaval," declared the Rev. Dr. Cortland Myers at Tremont Temple.

"There is a Christian socialism, and if such an upheaval ever becomes necessary I will go into line with them," he added. "I'm getting tired of sweating the way I am doing here tonight if my preaching doesn't mean something. It's heathenism to rob men and women in the name of Christianity, and the time is passing when men can pass the collection boxes in our churches and then go out and rob their fellow-citizens."

Dr. Myers said the corruption of public officials which might come under government ownership of railroads, telegraphs and other public utilities would not begin to approach some of the corrupt financiering which has been revealed in this country of late.

"God have mercy on all the politicians this side of hell," he concluded, "if they can do more robbery and ruin more homes and hearts and pocketbooks than some of our business men have been doing."

Anti Says Suffrage Will Cause Anarchy

Surrounded by American flags the Massachusetts Anti-Suffrage Association had a flag day celebration of their own in their new headquarters at No. 685 Boyelton street.

Boston school teachers were guests of honor. Mrs. B. L. Robinson presided. Miss Mary Forbes and Miss Dorothy Forbes poured at the tea tables and Miss Marjorie Connor gave a reading from "Jeanne d'Arc." Mrs. William Lowell Putnam, the principal speaker, declared that woman suffrage would sooner or later result in anarchy.

No Railroad Decisions.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The Supreme Court of the United States adjourned today without handing down any oinion in the important railroad cases.

Alton B. Parker's Rap at Roosevelt

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 17.—"Something is radically wrong in the mental processes of the electorate or else patriotism is at its last gasp when, with hardly a whisper of protest, a retired chief executive may brag to the representatives of the people of his treasonable scheme to intrude upon State rights and violate otherwise the fundamental law by establishing a military receivership over coal mines pending a strike, admitting without a suspicion of decent shame that he had well considered that his offence might be impeachable if committed, impeachable, of course, only because the acts planned would have been unconstitutional and lawless."

Thus did Judge Alton B. Parker of New York, without mentioning his name, assail ex-President Roosevelt in his address at the anniversary of the Yale Law School in this city today.

Gideons Ready for Boston Convention

More than 1,000 travelling men, known as "Gideons," who place Bibles in the guest rooms of the hotels in the country, will hold their fifteenth annual convention in Tremont Temple, July 24 to 27. A. B. T. Moore of Cedar Rapids, Ia., will preside. The discussion will be on the following topics:

"How to Benefit Travelling Men?"

"How to Make Better Cities in America?"

"Why Travelling Men Should Not Drink?"

"What Can a Travelling Man Do to Boom the Churches of the Land?"

"What Can Travelling Men Suggest to Make Boston More Religious?"

Ohio Miners Win in Court Decision

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The Supreme Court of the United States today denied the petition of soft coal operators of Ohio for an injunction to restrain the industrial commission of Ohio from enforcing the anti-screen law, which provides that coal miners must be paid on the basis of run-of-the-mine instead of after the coal is screened.

28 in Quincy Court.

As a result of five raids and a riot, twenty-eight men were arraigned in the Quincy Court today.

NEW CLEW IN WINTER GIRL'S DEATH MYSTERY

BALTIMORE, Md., June 15.—As a result of the grim determination of George Winter, brother of Ella Winter, whose mysterious death on the night of June 8 has puzzled the police, who virtually abandoned the case, a new witness has been discovered who saw the girl and David Reese, Jr., her yachtsman sweetheart, at Flood's pier on the night of her death.

This witness a boy, whose name is withheld, declares he saw Reese come ashore at the pier shortly before 8 o'clock in the evening. The boy says Reese went to the hotel near the pier and drank a bottle of beer. Reese today confirmed this. Then, according to the boy, Miss Winter came along and looked into the hotel. Reese waved his hand to the young woman and came out.

As they reached the pier and were about to board the motor boat Miss Winter grasped Reese by the lapels of his coat and seemed to be pleading with him. Now and then she would tug at his coat. She was crying, the boy thinks, but he was about twenty-five feet away and could not hear the conversation. He saw Reese put his arm around the girl's shoulder and apparently try to comfort her.

He tapped her on the back, and then, after snugging her head against his shoulder, Miss Winter stepped into the boat, which Reese started immediately in the direction of Cabin Branch Creek, where her body was found.

Reese reiterated that he had no quarrel with his sweethetrt, but that she was merely a trifle melancholy. He declared that she did not ask him to marry her, that she knew he would not marry any woman.

Despite the declaration of State Attorney Green, it was learned today that four Annapolis policemen in plain clothes are still busily engaged on the mystery.

Dies After Saving Girl from Train

David Downey, the fourteen-year-old Cambridge boy who was struck by a freight train at the Main street crossing of the Boston & Maine railroad in Charlestown after he had pulled a small girl out of the way of the train, died at the Relief Hospital. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Downey of No. 196 Hamphsire street, Cambridge.

TAFT, HARVARD ORATOR, OPPOSES RECALL OF JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Former President William Howard Taft was the orator at the Harvard Phi Beta Kappa exercises in Sanders' Theatre today. In a lengthy, prepared address, he opposed the recall of judicial decisions advocated by Theodore Roosevelt.

The Phi Beta Kappa members marched through the college yard and across Broadway to Sanders' Theatre, where President A. Lawrence Lowell opened the exercises and announced prize winners of the year. After Mr. Taft's address, Bliss Carman read the Phi Beta Kappa poem. The Phi Beta Kappa dinner was then served in Harvard Union.

Mr. Taft pointed out that in England they have evolved a strictly representative democracy and declared that the English people, recognizing the truth that a democracy cannot live unless the majority has a wise regard for the rights and feelings of the minority, respect the unwritten English constitution, which can be changed at any time by a simple vote of Parliament, but which is sacred by tradition.

RESPECT TRADITION.

Our ancestors, he said, put this unwritten constitution in our government, and added limitations upon 'Hasty and unjust popular impulsive action." In England, the voters respect tradition without being forced to do so, but in the United States, they respect tradition because they have to.

"The enduring character of the English government," said Mr. Taft, "and of the governments that have been derived from it, like our own, is to be traced to the training of the minority to be good losers. But the quality of being good losers will not persist in minorities, unless majorities exercise their powers with fairness and self-restraint."

He said there was a growing unwillingness in minorities to abide by the judgment of the majority. He did not cite the bolting Bull Moosers as an example, but did refer to the militants in England and the Ulsterites, adding:

"We find comparatively small minorities represented by trades unions demanding exemption from a general law which should be applicable to every man."

IMPORTANCE OF THE COURT.

He forecasted that any encroachment on property rights might mean rebellion on the part of every property holder from the small farmer to John D. Rockefeller. He summarized the situation by saying:

"In the conflicting and various interests that society in its modern form is developing, the need for some tribunal like the Supreme Court grows greater, not less."

And then Mr. Taft told something of the history of the court, showing how it has been subject to attack and has even been defied by Presidents in the past. Thomas Jefferson's conflict with John Marshall was told, and the attempt to impeach Justice Chase. Then the fight with Andrew Jackson. Later came the Dred-Scott decision when Abraham Lincoln came into opposition to the court.

In cases, Mr. Taft declared, the people, though opposed to the court's views, bided their time and either amended the Constitution to win their point, or came to the court's way of thinking. He says:

PEOPLE ARE SUPREME.

"I have reviewed these cases in which the Supreme Court was divided and in which the decision was not satisfactory to a large class of the people, in order to show two things: First, that we are a wonderfully conservative people because though often tried by decisions apparently made on lines and by divided court, we have always acquiesced in the judgment of the court and awaited the constitutional and normal way of reversing it by amendment, if there were enough people to do it."

Mr. Taft's conclusion was that where the people are determined on a change opposed by the Supreme Court, they will get it under the Constitution and without the necessity for a recall of judicial decisions.

ELECT HONORARY MEMBERS.

At the annual meeting of the Harvard Phi Beta Kappa these officers were re-elected:

President, LeBaron Russell Briggs; vice-president, Charles Hall Grandgent; corresponding secretary, William Coolidge Lane.

MUST KEEP UP REPEAL FIGHT, SAYS KNOWLAND

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—"So long as there is a Panama Canal the repeal of the free tolls for American coastwise shipping will be a live issue. The issue will continue to live until the repeal itself is repealed. That this is inevitable I firmly believe.

"The amendment that has been proposed to the repeal, stating that no rights of the American people have been surrendered, leaves a doubt as to those rights and places the matter in the air and open for discussion."

This was the statement made by Congressman Joseph R. Knowland, now a candidate for the nomination for the United States Senate from California, in an address before the Los Angeles Realty Board.

Flee Launch Fire as Tank Blows Up

Anchored half way between Bass Point, Nahant, and the Graves, Frank W. MacFarland of No. 11 Lowell avenue, and Chester Strong, of Boston, fought desperately for several minutes to prevent the flames of their burning thirty-foot power launch reaching the sixty-gallon gasoline tank in the bow. They were obliged to give up the fight and leaping into a tender rowed away just as the tank exploded.

REBELS MAKE FIERCE ATTACK ON DURAZZO

ROME, June 15.—Major Thomson, the Dutch commander of the Albanian gendarmerie, who was given his commission by the powers when Prince William of Wied ascended the throne of Albania, was one of the first to fall in the rebel attack upon Durazzo today. This information was received in a telegram from the Italian minister to Albania.

Baron Aliotti said that the attack began at 4 o'clock this morning, the rebels making an assault from three directions. The fighting was sharp and Major Thomson hurried to the front. He was killed while on the firing line directing the defence.

The international marines will be used only to defend the Durazzo palace and the foreign legations, Baron Aliotti said.

It was at first believed that the insurgents would capture the city, but the Albanian regulars, the gendarmerie and the Malissores fought so stubbornly that, as the day advanced, hope grew that the rebels would be driven off.

Fears are felt in official circles that the fighting in Albania may cause another Balkan war, if the rebels are successful. Turkey and Greece are already at loggerheads and if the Mohammedan revolutionists in the new kingdom and a Musselman prince take the throne persecutions of Greeks in Albania will naturally follow.

Titled Infant Is Born at Newport

NEWPORT, R. I., June 15. — A daughter has been born to Count and Countess de San Estoban de Canongo at their Summer home here. The child is a niece of Queen Nathalie of Servia. She was christened Mari de las Mercedes Cristine. Her father is second secretary of the Spanish embassy at Washington.

Mrs. Norrie Weds Count De Jumilhac

PARIS, June 15.—Mrs. A. Lanfear Norrie of New York and Count de Jumilhac have been married here in the American Church. Ambrose Lanfear Norrie, her first husband, died two years ago, leaving a large fortune. The new Countess de Jumilhac is a grandniece of Pierre Lorillard.

409-Pound Boy Is Still Growing

New Roosevelt Grandson Bears Colonel's Name

NEW YORK, June 15.—Theodore Roosevelt, 3d, Colonel Roosevelt's first grandson to bear the same name, was in good health today at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., in this city. Theodore, Jr., eldest son of the former President, married Miss Eleanor B. Alexander, June 20, 1910. Their first child, a daughter, was born August 17, 1911. Mrs. Richard Derby, who was Miss Ethel Roosevelt, also has a son.

Second Entry in Cross-Sea Flight

LONDON, June 15.—The London Daily Mail announces a second entry for the prize of $50,000 offered by it for a waterplane flight across the Atlantic in seventy-two hours. Paris Singer, a member of the wealthy family who founded the Singer sewing machine business, has entered an entry in behalf of Auguste Malco, the French airman, who will act as pilot.

Plan $50,000 Synagogue.

Plans are being made by the Lenas Hazedeck Association of East Boston to erect a $50,000 synagogue on Chelsea street, East Boston. Work on the building will commence at once.

'SIR' JAMES TO RETURN TO SEE ABOUT STORIES

"Sir" James and "Lady" Carlton are in New York. They will return to Boston tomorrow. "Sir" James wired to a Boston friend last night that he was in the metropolis "attending to important business," and that he would hurry here and give his personal attention to certain statements that have been circulated about him.

"Slanderous!" he calls them. He and "Lady" Carlton are quite perturbed. They don't think the State and city officials hereabouts are a bit nice to raise such a rumpus about their rank and lineage. No visitors from the other side have occasioned a bigger tempest than "Sir" James and his school-girl bride.

"Matters have gone altogether too far," exclaimed "Sir" James with a thump of his fist before they departed Thursday. "Somebody will regret it. I shall have a legal redress. I shall not be bullied and insulted. Why should they think me a fakir?"

Artemas Ward, with whose firm in New York Cairton is alleged to have claimed he was associated, today wired to the AMERICAN as follows:

New York, June 15, 1914.
Have no knowledge of Sir James Carlton.
ARTEMAS WARD

Officers and crew of the Hamburg-American liner Cleveland are loud in their praises of "Sir" James and "Lady" Carlton. The couple made the trip on the Cleveland and officers on the ship today reported that passengers and crew looked upon them as "titled persons."

"Sir" and "Lady" Carlton were so pleased with their treatment on the ship that they gave Captain M. Filler and ranking officers a spread at the Copley-Plaza last week.

Bellhops and porters at the Touraine say "Sir" James was liberal with his tips. They would like to have him come back.

Geraldine Farrar Coming to America

PARIS, June 15.—Miss Geraldine Farrar, who has derived much benefit from her rest in Paris, has left for Salso Maggiore. She asked the correspondents to deny the report she will not return to the Metropolitan Opera House next season.

Woman Returns as Seekers Drag Pond

BROCKTON, June 15.—While a searching party dragged Great Meadow Pond for her body after an all-day hunt, Mrs. Rosanna Snag, fifty-eight, wife of Isaac Snag, No. 616 Centre street, returned home.

Postal Clerks to Unite with A. F. of L.

The postal clerks of Greater Boston have voted to join the American Federation of Labor. The new organization will be a branch of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks. The Massachusetts Letter Carriers at their convention elected Patrick F. Collins of Salem president. The other officers elected were: Bernard A. O'Hara of Boston, vice-president; Bernard J. Curtin of Lynn, secretary; George L. Adams of Lowell, treasurer.

Graduates Go to See the President

LONDON, June 15.—Perhaps the first traveling commencement in history is to be enjoyed by the graduates of the model high school at Park Ridge, N. J. Seven boys and eight girls, who received their diplomas today, dispensed with all formalities and substituted traveling dress for graduation suits. They left for Washington to meet the President.

Gas Kills Woman.

GLOUCESTER, June 15.—Miss Louise M. Ham, forty-seven, of No. 22 Addison street, was found dead from gas poisoning in the bathroom of her home.

WILSON WILL HEAD PANAMA CANAL PARADE

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Standing on the bridge of the battleship Oregon, President Wilson next March will personally lead the great international fleet of warships from Hampton Roads to Colon, to participate in the formal opening of the Panama Canal. After passing through the canal he will proceed northward, enter the Golden Gate at the head of this armada and attend the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco.

The President, according to the present program, will leave Washington for Hampton Roads, accompanied by his official family, on the yacht Mayflower on March 5. The international fleet will have been gathering in the Roads since January 1.

OWN AN AUTOMOBILE.

It is no problem now to have a machine of your own. Bargains galore in the "Used Car" columns of the Boston AMERICAN.

Marjory Blanchard Weds H. E. Harwood

Miss Marjory Blanchard of Concord will become the bride of Herbert E. Harwood of Littleton today.

The ceremony will occur in the First Parish Meeting House by the Rev. Loren B. Macdonald, minister of the church, and a reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents on Nashawtuc Hill.

Brookline Protege of Nordica Returns

Aboard the Hamburg-American liner Amerika, which is coming on her maiden trip to Boston, is Miss Helena Tardivel of Brookline, a Radcliffe College girl, who has been studying music at the Paris Conservatoire on the advice of Mme. Nordica, before whom the young woman had played at the Portland musical festival a year ago.

THOUSANDS IN BOSTON PAY TRIBUTE TO FLAG

Flag Day had general observance in Greater Boston. "Old Glory" waved from homes of all conditions, the Stars and Stripes were eulogized in the pulpits, and thousands of Civil War and Spanish War veterans joined with many thousands more of citizens in memorial exercises in honor of the flag.

Today will be held the formal official exercises commemorative of the anniversary.

Somerville, where the original flag of the union was unfurled in 1776, had a parade and an oration by Governor Walsh. Not only did the paraders who belonged to civic societies carry American flags, but 10,000 spectators waved flags also as the procession passed to Central Hill battery, where the flag exercises were held.

Boston Lodge of Elks held exercises on Boston Common, where thousands gatheerd. Mayor Curley delivered the oration. The Mayor scored those who had refused in parade to carry the country's flag, but preferred instead the red flag with its "No God, No Country" emblazonment. "May we never," said the Mayor, "see such a sight again. The old flag knows no creed, no race, no color. It exists, and will exist, that man may be himself."

The patriotic solos by Mme. Wilhelmina Wright Calvert, soloist at Tremont Temple, and Edith Macgregor Woods were a feature that won applause at the celebration on the Common.

Chelsea Elks heard Assistant District Attorney Thomas D. Lavelle as orator in flag services. Everett Lodge of Elks listened to an address by State Auditor Frank Pope of Leominster. In Quincy, the speaker was Edward O. Skelton.

East Boston veterans observed the day by visiting patriotic localities.

Today the flag is flung from every municipal public building in the State.

'Lipton Good Sport,' Wishes Him Luck

Captain Henry J. McKee, veteran yachtsman of the Atlantic coast, who was tendered a surprise reception at his home, No. 687 East Eighth street, South Boston, on his eightieth birthday, surprised his friends when he expressed the hope that Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht, the Shamrock IV., would lift the cup "because Lipton is a good sport."

Smallpox Halts Brockton Wedding

BROCKTON, June 15.—Two cases of smallpox have been reported by the Board of Health. One of the victims is Leon Dufault, twenty-four, of No. 40 Hunt street. He came from Manchester, N. H., and was to be married this week to Laura Lupien. The other case is that of Alfred Barbeau, forty-one, of No. 9 Manchester street. Both are at the contagious hospital.

MME. WILHELMINA WRIGHT CALVERT, at top, and Edith MacGregor Woods, soloists at Elks' flag day exercises on Common.

CROWDS WATCH CIRCUS PARADE COVER 5 MILES

A few years ago one of the big circuses cut out its street parade on the grounds that something for nothing was bad business. But Barnum and Bailey's show pins more faith than ever upon the procession as an attraction to its white tops, and one of the most elaborate and pretentious parades ever seen in Boston took place this morning.

It was witnessed by hundreds of thousands for nobody ever grows too old to watch the circus go by.

There were seven bands of music in the big lineup and that gives an idea of the character of the parade.

Many of the animal cages were open to view and the kids gazed in admiration at the courageous lion tamers who sat contentedly among their beasts. The closed cages, with the rare animals that you ought to pay to see aroused the usual curiosity. Which housed the great hippopotamus and in which one rode the wild-mannered rhino?

The classy cavalcade wound out of the Huntington avenue grounds about 10 a. m. and covered about five miles through the principal streets. The composition of a circus parade requires no description. You know that the camels and the elephants form one of the chief attractions. The whole army of clowns in their funny vehicles, the lady circus riders looking coquetish in their brilliant costumes and upon their prancing steeds, the army of performers from the highest priced acts down to the lowest, for the circus parade is very democratic. Nobody is too important to turn out in the parade and increase the show.

A series of beautiful floats represented the nations of the world and gave a lesson in geography to the thousands of attendant school children.

30,000 March in Manchester, N. H. Flag Day Parade

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 15.—Headed by the Elks, thirty thousand members of military and fraternal organizations, supplemented by scores of bands and floats, today passed in review before Governors Felker, Walsh, Pothier and Fletcher and their staffs in the Flag Day parade—the greatest patriotic demonstration in the history of the city. President Wilson, who was to have been the guest of honor, was unable to be present.

The parade took three hours to pass. It was preceeded by flag raising exercises on Hanover Common by the school children of Manchester. Representatives of nearly every city and town in New England were present. Band concerts were held throughout the city and fireworks and the banquet were scheduled for the evening.

This Democrat Has Betrayed His Party

EDWARD M. HALL of Pittsfield.

This man is one of the Democratic Representatives who were absent when he knew or ought to have known that the vote on the Constitutional Convention was to be taken in the Legislature.

The Democrats were solemnly pledged on their honor to favor a Constitutional Convention, in which the great questions of reform could be taken up and settled once for all. Almost every State in the Union has had a Coustitutional Convention since we had our last one. Governor Walsh recommended it in his inaugural message.

One way of betraying a party platform is by being absent when your vote is needed on a question involving a platform pledge.

The Initiative and Referendum bill will soon come up for a vote.

Democratic traitors can kill this bill by being absent when the vote is taken and thus permitting the corporation men in the Legislature, WHO HAVE MORE courage than the runaways, to vote it down.

Is this the scheme of these Democrats?

If it IS their scheme, they are as silly as the ostrich who sticks his head in the sand and thinks that nobody can see him.

Raps Moral Decay in Baccalureate

NEW YORK, June 15.—Society is in danger of total destruction through moral decay and disregard of the sanctity of marriage and the home, according to Dr. Thomas T. Phelan, rector of St. Lawrence Church of Brewster, N. Y., who preached a baccalaureate sermon to Manhattan College graduates at St. Agnes' Church.

California Volcano Kills 1; Two Insane

REDDING, Cal., June 15.—In the sixth eruption of Mount Lassen, one man is reported killed, one injured and two driven temporarily insane. The eruption shot a huge column of dense black smoke, fire, steam and ashes 2,000 feet into the air and lasted thirty minutes.

H. S. Atwood, M. D., Galena, Kan., states that in neuralgia, headache and rheumatic pains he finds that anti-kamnia tablets give relief when all other means fail. The adult dose is two tablets every three hours. Ask for A-K tablets.—Northwestern Lancet.

Lawyer Peckham to Wed New York Girl

NEW YORK, June 15.—The engagement of William G. Peckham, the well-known New York lawyer, and Miss Marion Wheelock, a daughter of Francis H. Wheelock, is announced. Peckham represented the Northampton, Mass., Bank in suits growing out of the famous robbery of $2,000,000, in which he was successful.

West End Bootblack Dies.

Joseph Barassa, who for many years conducted a bootblacking establishment in Friend street, near the North Station, is dead at his home, No. 168 Endicott street, North End.

Million for Hackett Within 18 Months

NEW YORK, June 15.—The value of the estate left by Mrs. Minnie Hackett Trowbridge is $1,389,049.46. Nearly all of this property goes to James K. Hackett, the actor, but he will not be in possession of the principal until after the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company has had it for at least a year. But within eighteen months Mr. Hackett will be more than a bare millionaire.

Fatally Wounded in Lawrence Riot

LAWRENCE, June 15.—One man was stabbed fifteen times and probably fatally wounded and a score of others cut and bruised during a battle on South Union street, between Austrian Poles and Russian Poles, who were returning from rival picnics in the South Lawrence woods. Knives were freely used, and when a squad of police reached the scene the street was strewn with bleeding men. Five arrests were made.

Cambridge Boy Drowns.

Harry V. Niles, twenty-one, of No. 130 Elm street, Cambridge, was drowned in the Sudbury River, Hudson, while on a fishing trip. Frank Scully of No. 24 Amory street, Cambridge, Niles' companion, was saved by a canoeing party.

Seek Man Who Lured and Stabbed Victim

Charles Solomon, twenty-seven, No. 37 Middlesex street, is at the Relief Hospital suffering from stab wounds inflicted upon him in the West End. The police are looking for a young man whom Solomon declares lured him into a house on Staniford street where a card game was in progress and, after stabbing him, robbed him of a $300 diamond pin and $100 in money.

Motorcycle Kills Springfield Man

SPRINGFIELD, June 15.—Stepping into the roadway at the foot of Pecowsic Hill after a stroll in Forest Park with his wife, son and a friend, Harry Ellis, Harry E. Cook of No. 18 Hiawatha street was struck by a motorcycle owned by Frank Ginsberg of No. 107 Hartford avenue, New Britain, Ct., and died in the Hampden Hospital.

Six Killed, Several Hurt by Lightning

LONDON, June 15.—Lightning killed six persons and injured several others on Wadsworth Common during a severe storm. Four of those killed were children. Many buildings in South London were struck by lightning.

Plagiarism Charge Admitted by Smoot

WASHINGTON, June 15.—"Mr. Darling's anger is not justified because if the speech I used was his I delivered it unsuspectingly." This is the answer of Senator Smoot to the complaint of Jasper T. Darling of Chicago that a speech made in 1912 at the tomb of Lincoln was repeated on Decoration Day at Arlington by Senator Smoot. "An old soldier whom I do not know brought me two or three poems and an account of Civil War battles, requesting me to use them in my address," said Senator Smoot. "The material met my approval, and I used it."

LONG BURNING PIPE AND CIGARETTE TOBACCO

Oh, you old jimmy pipe!

"Lead me to it" say men in all walks of life, since they've found out that Prince Albert tobacco can't bite the tongue and can't parch the throat.

"Lead me to it" you'll say just as quick as you invest in a tidy red tin and find out first-hand just how good P. A. is as a pipe or cigarette tobacco!

PRINCE ALBERT
the national joy smoke

brought thousands and thousands of old jimmy pipes out of the garrets. It has revolutionized pipe and cigarette smoking!

That's because Prince Albert is made by a patented process that cuts out the "grouch" and just lets in the sunshine! Never in your life have you hit such flavor and fragrance and freshness!

Play P. A. in a jimmy pipe or roll up the corkingest makin's cigarette you ever put fire to. It's all one and the same thing—just good for what ails your smokappetite! And it rolls up so dead easy. Being mighty fresh, it just stays put and doesn't blow away or run away like the dust-brands.

And, you know, today's the day!

Buy Prince Albert everywhere. Toppy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; also handsome pound and half-pound humidors.

U. S. SENATORS MUST EXPLAIN MINE LETTERS

WASHINGTON, June 15.—What promises to rival the Marconi scandal in England is astir here since the revelation that letters boosting a North Carolina gold mine have been sent forth upon the letter heads of two prominent Senate committees.

Senators William E. Chilton of West Virginia and Lee S. Overman of North Carolina admit their interest in the mine, and say the letters were sent from their offices through a lamentable mistake. Walter George Newman is promoting the mine. John Skelton Williams, Comptroller of the Currency, sent a government expert to examine it at government expense, and the ramifications of the thing are said to extend to the very pages in the House and Senate.

The mine, the Gold Hill Consolidated Company, located at Gold Hill, Rowan County, N. C., is the successor of the Gold Hill Copper Company, of which the Hand Book says: "It was a notorious promotion that caught many Wall Street operators."

The letters praising the mine purport to be from a mining expert to Senator Chilton. The copies sent out on Senate stationery are marked "Copy." The stationery of the Committee on Rules and on the Census was used, and on these letter heads the names of Senators LaFollette, Cummins, Du Pont, McLean, Townsend, Pomerene, Sheppard, Shively, Thornton, Martine and Thompson appear. Senator Pomerene of Ohio is said to be a stockholder in the mine. Senator Swanson of Virginia is also said to have an interest.

The Senators whose names appear on the letterheads knew nothing of the affair till shown copies of the "Copy" letters. Then they were indignant, and are anxious for an explanation of the mistake which Senators Overman and Chilton blame for the occurrence.

HUNT WOMEN IN LONDON BOMB PLOT

LONDON, June 15.—With the "bomb squad" of the militant suffragettes' successors of the famous "arson squad," again active there is a new reign of terror throughout England.

The placing of a bomb in Westminister Abbey and similar attacks on other less well known religious edifices, has been followed by the exploding of a bomb in St. George's Church, Hanover square, and further desecration by the militants is feared.

According to the Daily Express the authorities have discovered that the militant suffragettes pay regular tariff rates for the commission of acts of violence. As an example, it says, $250 is the price paid for slashing a valued picture.

PROTEST TORTURE.

Following the explosion at St. George's, firemen forced the doors. They found the church filled with a dense, acrid smoke. Four pews were wrecked and three costly stained windows shattered.

"A protest against the torture of women," was the inscription on an envelope found in the church.

Scotland Yard detectives today followed a clew offered by attendants at the evening service, who declared the pew where the bomb was placed had been occupied by a woman in a checked dress.

Theodore Roosevelt was married in St. George's in 1886. Premier Asquith was also married there. The church was built early in the Seventeenth Century and is one of the most famous in England.

The famous painting of "The Last Supper," by Sir James Thornhill, was not damaged.

While the judges of the high courts and the Lord Mayor were attending services in St. Paul's Cathedral, according to the annual custom, several suffragettes interrupted with protests against the torturing of women. The service was delayed several minutes while two women who were chained to seats were removed. As they were carried out they shouted:

"God save Mrs. Pankhurst!"

MISS CAHILL, OPERA GIRL, TO WED TOMORROW

Miss Grace V. Cahill, a pretty girl in the Boston Opera Company ballet will tomorow night become the bride of Philip McMorrow, a Boston business man. The marriage will take place in the rectory of of St. Peter's Church, Dorchester, Rev. Edward Kenny officiating.

Members of the Boston Opera Company now in Paris will be pleased, though not surprised, at this news for Mr. McMorrow's attention to the pretty chorus girl was marked, and when she declined to go abroad with the company several weeks ago they accused her of having matrimonial intentions.

Mr. McMorrow, whose home is at No. 39 Moultrie street, Dorchester, has offices in the Old South Building.

Miss Cahill's sister, Marion, will be her bridesmaid, and Joseph McMorrow will be the best man. After a reception at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Sarah Cahill, of No. 42 Mt. Ida road, Dorchester, the couple will go on an extensive tour of the West.

BOY BURGLARS RAID LAWSON'S BACK BAY HOME

Burglars who ransacked the Back Bay home of Thomas W. Lawson, believed to have been boys out for an adventure, were sought by the police of Greater Boston today.

A full list of the stolen articles has not yet been secured, but it is believed it will only include ornaments of minor value.

According to Mr. Lawson's housekeeper, who was not in the house at No. 3 Charlesgate East at the time of the break, the burglars ransacked the place. Drawers were opened and ransacked. Curiously enough, the wine closet was not touched.

"But everything was strewn around the house. After an examination of the place today she said:

"I don't believe they stole much beside a few cheap little ornaments. The silver and plate was undisturbed.

"There were finger marks on tables and chairs and mirrors, of a size that indicated the burglars were mere boys. The marks were very small.

"About the only thing that really tickled them was some candy and nuts in boxes. They fairly went for those, and the nut-shells and candy-wrappers were strewn around. They ate a lot.

"Several cigar boxes were opened; but it doesn't look as though they had tackled any. I guess the cigars were too impressive looking for them, for Mr. Lawson likes a hearty smoke."

The Lawson break was some time early Saturday evening. Neighbors noticed the back door was open and notified the police. It is believed the thieves were frightened into flight.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Fifty men, who were arrested at Coney Island, charged with wearing immodest bathing suits, were arraigned in court today. The police have started a campaign against men who wear scanty apparel on the beach.

MORE WILSON PSYCHOLOGY ON 'DULL BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, June 15.—"The psychology" of the present depression in business today was further expounded by President Wilson to his callers today. He stated that the ordinary business of the country was normal, and that there was also an unusual development in some lines. The President made public some of the methods, he said, "by which some of the psychology of depression was created."

The following correspondence, taken from a review, was made public ot the White House:

"New York, May 1, 1914.

"Dear Sir—We take the privilege of writing you on a subject of vital importance to yourself and the country at large. It is no doubt evident to you that prosperity has been lost somewhere in this county, owing to the mischievous activities of the politicians. This is recognized by all men.

"We enclose herewith draft of a letter which embraces the views of the majority of thinking business people of our section of the country and which should be addressed to the President of the United States, the Congress and members of the Interstate Commerce Commission respectively.

"Might we suggest, if you agree with us, that you take the trouble of writing letters of a similar character to the President, the members of the United States Senate and the House of Representatives from your State. The sooner this appeal is made the greater effect it will have on the politicians, who have caused the loss of prosperity."

The letter which the review requested its correspondents to mail to Washington officials, follows:

"Honored Sir:

Wishes Wilson's Associates Would Go on Chautauqua

NEW YORK, June 15.—This is the view President L. C. Hulsmann of the Central Supply Company, Indianapolis, takes of the business situation:

"We believe President Wilson is conscientious, sincere and honest, but we cannot help but believe that he is surrounded by a lot of fellows whose sole remedy for everything is talk, so we wish his associates would go out on the Chautauqua circuit and let him alone."

REBELS DRIVEN BACK BY NEW ALBANIAN KING

DURAZZO, Albania, June 15.—Albanian rebels, who attacked this city today, were repulsed in a battle that raged fifteen hours. During the greater part of the fight the defenders were led by Prince William of Wied, the new King of Albania, who took command when Major Thompson, the Dutch commander of the gendarmerie, was killed early in the fight.

Part of the time Prince William was on the firing line, while bullets from the rebel gun dropped all around him. At one time the rebels were within 500 yards of the city. Three attacks were made on the capital at 4 o'clock this morning, and throughout the day the conflict went on fiercely. The rebels finally withdrew at 7 o'clock this evening.

TRIES TO KILL ITALIAN COUNT WITH A BOMB

NEW YORK, June 15.—A high-powered bomb, with a powder fuse, which had been lighted, was found today in the porter's room on the third floor of No. 212 Lafayette street, across a narrow hallway from the office of Count G. Faroni, Italian consul in New York.

Detectives investigating the case declare that an attempt had been made to assissinate the Count, but that the fuse had been extinguished by the dampness of the room and the inexpertness with which it had been made.

The Italian consul has been active recently in having Italian criminals deported. A few weeks ago an attempt was made to burn the building in which his office is located.

WALSH TAKES STEPS TO MAKE NEW HAVEN RESTORE MILLIONS

Governor Walsh has taken steps to compel the New Haven railroad to sue its directors and recover the millions the directors illegally expended during the past ten years, it became known today.

He has asked the Attorney General whether the Public Service Commission has not power to proceed to this end under Section 28 of the act by which the commission was established last year.

The Governor's step follows the remarkable exclusive stories in the AMERICAN—on Sunday, June 7, announcing Sherman L. Whipple's plan to sue for $125,000,000 on behalf of minority stockholders, and the other yesterday announcing that Congress plans to act to the same end.

Governor Walsh has not taken any direct steps, because he does not wish to complicate the movement to dissolve the New Haven, and Boston & Maine alliance.

If the Attorney General reports that the Public Service Commission cannot act under present laws Governor Walsh will present a special message to the Legislature, asking the Legislature to inaugurate one of the two following plans:

First, direct the Public Service Commission to proceed against the old directors for wasteful and extravagant expenditures which never would have been authorized if that board had been given an opportunity to pass upon them.

Second, direct the Attorney-General to assist stockholders of the two roads in any prosecution which may be instituted to recover their losses as a result of the extravagant expenditures.

Governor Walsh has been considering the matter for some time, it is said, but has refrained from forwarding his message to the Legislature to date in order that the plan for the separation of the two roads, called for by the Federal Department of Justice, should not be complicated in any way.

The Governor is understood to take the position that while suits against the Morgan-Mellen crowd would inure primarily and most directly to the benefit of the stockholders of the two roads, there is a distinct public interest which has been disregarded in that the service has been disrupted and the two New England roads brought to the verge of bankruptcy.

MOST OF WILD AUTOING DONE BY 25 YOUTHS

Practically all the speeding and reckless driving of automobiles in Massachusetts is being done by twenty-five young men, most of them scions of the richest families, according to James W. Synan of the Highway Commission. The youth said to be the greatest offender is young William M. Wood, Jr., son of the head of the American Woolen Company.

Unless young Wood stops tearing over Massachusetts roads at from 40 to 60 miles an hour, he will be unable to operate a car within the confines of the Commonwealth.

This has been made clear by the Highway Commission, which recently suspended his operator's license until September 1. Commissioner Synan said yesterday that if this did not have its effect, the license would probably be suspended indefinitely, possibly forever.

Young Wood's unenviable reputation as a daredevil driver is being emulated by his younger brother, Cornelius Ayer Wood, who was warned by the Highway Commission last Wednesday. Cornelius was accused of sending his car through the Chestnut Hill district of Brookline at a speed of more than forty miles an hour.

LOOPHOLE IN LAWS.

Although there is a loophole in the present automobile laws, the phrase "reasonable and proper" being the vantage point of all lawyers for the defence, the Highway Commission will revoke all licenses when it has been shown that the accused is a pernicious speed maniac.

"I think this last episode will calm Wood down," said James W. Synan of the Massachusetts Highway Commission, "but if it does not, the Commission will. He is one of a crowd of about twenty-five young men who are violating the speed laws of the State, although it must be said to his credit that, so far as the Board knows, he has never injured anyone.

"Wood's license to operate has been suspended until September 1, and we feel that this is a most salutary punishment, to stop him from operating a car during the pleasantest months of the year. If he should operate a car, taking advantage of the law permitting a person to operate a car if accompanied by another licensee, there would be two views of the case, were he to be arrested. If he were with one of his chauffeurs or a younger chum, the board would hold him responsible. If, on the other hand, he was driving in company with an older person, owner of the car, we would feel that the owner was responsible for letting Wood drive at a high rate of speed, and would deal with the owner.

"Although Wood has been before us several times, three were for minor violations, one being the fact that he did not have his license with him, and the other two because the tail light of his car was not lighted.

"I believe that one cause of this speeding is the weakness of the present automobile laws. The commission has twice recommended a flat maximum speed limit of twenty-five miles an hour in all parts of the State, and twice the Legislature has voted down our recommendations. If the board is five years in advance of public opinion, the public must not blame the board if it has the laws to enforce.

"We have been attempting to hold down this speeding and you may rest assured that the commission will employ the most stringent means, whether the speeder is the owner of a dozen cars or the hired operator of one."

The commission this last week revoked the licenses of Louis B. McCarthy of Boston, Edward E. Breen of Cambridge and Pius J. Bulkites of West Bridgewater. Breen's revocation was because of an accident resulting in the death of Mary Allen of Lexington on May 14, McCarthy's followed the death of Timothy Cummings in an accident April 23, while Bulkites was convicted in Quincy of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

MAY MAKE FLETCHER VICE ADMIRAL FOR TAKING VERA CRUZ

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Already given the command of the great Atlantic fleet, goal of every naval officer's ambition, for the taking of Vera Cruz, Rear Admiral Frank F. Fletcher may be also honored by receiving the rank of vice-admiral.

A bill to allow this honor to be bestowed is pending in Congress. Fletcher will be the first recognized if it passes.

A general order has been issued awarding a medal of honor and a gratuity of $100 to the following eleven enlisted men for extraordinary heroism:

Henry H. Nickerson, Wheeling, W. Va.; Abraham de Somers, Milwaukee; Joseph C. Harner, Canton, O.; George Cregan, Fort Richmond, N. Y.; Harry C. Beasley, Newark, O.; Lawrence C. Sinnett, Auburn, W. Va.; Percy A. Deckew, Linoleumville, N. Y.; Charles F. Bishop, Pittsburgh; James A. Walsh, New York city; Charles L. Nordsiek, Valatie, N. Y., and Fred J. Schnepel, New York city.

To forty-two officers and fifty-five enlisted men the Secretary has written highly commendatory letters.

ARMY OF 200,000 IS PREDICTED TO AID IRISH HOME RULE

LONDON, June 15.—According to claims of the Nationalists, an army of 200,000 men will soon be ready to aid in the establishment of Home Rule in Ireland.

The National Volunteers in Ulster are in large part fully armed, while in other parts of the country arms are being smuggled in in smaller quantities.

The movement is spontaneous and self-supporting, unlike that of the Ulster volunteers, who are heavily subsidized by English Unionist money and are getting a dollar a day.

MODEL TO WED IN A ROMANCE OF VACATION

Miss Bertha Irene Coombs, the Back Bay artist's model, who is known in the Boston studios as "the girl with the Titian hair," is to wed tomorrow in a vacation day romance, it became known today. At noon in the Church of the Advent she is to become the bride of George E. Beckwith of Philadelphia.

The couple first met last Summer at Winter Harbor, Me., where they were spending their vacations, according to Mrs. Flora Coombs, mother of the pretty model. It was a case of love at sight and owo months later they were engaged. Miss May Coombs, sister of the bride-to-be, is to be maid of honor, and Arthur Reed of Philadelphia will be best man.

Miss Coombs lives at No. 262 Massachusetts avenue. Before posing for Boston artists she was on the stage. Portraits for which she posed for students in the art schools have won several prizes. Among the well-known women artists who have painted her are Mary B. Titcomb and Mary Macomber, and Mrs. Cowdery of New York.

MEDIATION TODAY AT CRUCIAL POINT; NAMES DISCUSSED

MEDIATION HEADQUARTERS, Niagara Fall, Ont., June 15.—President Wilson's "Mediation War" upon General Huerta today faced its crucial point. The American delegates under carefully drawn instructions from Washington, made clear for the last time to the mediators that they were empowered to offer none but the names of Constitutionalists for the provisional presidency of Mexico. They stubbornly refused to accept the suggestion of names from outside the rebel party.

The Mexican delegates were given the alternative of agreeing to one of the names presented by the Americans or of nominating other men, provided they are men prominent in public affairs and faithful to Carranza.

But they were given to understand that the provisional government must be in the hands of Constitutionalist majority. It was even reported that the name of Raoul Madero, lieutenant of Villa and brother of the murdered President, was sprung by the Americans as a possible head of the government until an election should take place.

If the Huertista delegates take Raoul Madero, who has a blood feud with every man of prominence on the Federal side, they completely surrender. It was regarded as better from their point that Zubaran, Calderon, Cabrera or even the artillery officer of General Villa's army, General Felipe Angeles, take the provisional presidency.

George E. Adams Dies.

1 DEAD, 7 HURT IN SERIES OF AUTO CRASHES

One man was killed, seven persons were injured and nearly a score of others had narrow escapes in a series of Sunday automobile accidents around Boston.

Nicholas Twigg, twenty-one, of No. 13 Litchfield street, Brighton, died at the Watertown Relief Hospital from injuries he received when the automobile in which he was riding struck a milk wagon in Arsenal street, Watertown.

Bartholemas Connors, twenty-two, of Shannon street, Brighton, and James Ring of No. 2 Hefferan street, Brighton, are in the same hospital critically injured. James Turney, of No. 32 Green street, Watertown, and James Donahue, of No. 72 Elm street, East Watertown, were also injured. All four were riding in the car with Twigg.

Mrs. Richard Trefelder received cuts on the face when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband, in Beverly, was struck by another car. Mrs. J. M. Gordon and daughter, of Dorchester, were both badly cut when their automobile struck a stone wall in Hale street, Beverly Cove.

Automobiles owned by Frank Watson, of No. 63 Elm street, Andover, and A. A. Damsen of Derry, N. H., were seriously damaged in a collision in Hospital square, Lynn. Damsen, his wife and brother, Daniel, and Watson and his wife were shaken up.

Four persons were thrown out and bruised when two automobiles collided in Blue Hill avenue, Milton, near the Mattapan bridge and one of the machines overturned.

Schedules Sleep and Won't Postpone It

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 14.—When Jim Rice marks anything on the calendar it's there. And he won't postpone it. Andy Coakley, who coached the battery men of the Columbia baseball team this year, played here with his Asbury Park Club, which he owns, and invited the entire Columbia squad to witness the game. Coach Rice declined to allow his men to leave their quarters, as sleep was scheduled for the afternoon.

Walthour in Record Race Behind Motors

NEW YORK, June 15.—Riding in true form, Bobby Walthour, the American champion pace follower, won the 30-mile motor-paced, race from a field of picked riders at the Motordrome at Brighton Beach.

Walthour's time was 38m. 39 1-5s., which will stand as a new American record made behind motor without windshield.

WOMAN SINGER AVERTS RIOT IN GOULD THEATRE

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 15.—The soprano voice of Mrs. McDonald Sheridan, a guest of Mrs. Charles J. Gould and a co-worker of Miss Margaret Wilson in the movement to open public school buildings as social centres, averted a riot when Adolph Wolff, an I. W. W. speaker, called a gathering of villagers "vipers, snakes and cowards" in the Greek theatre on the Gould estate.

Several of the villagers made a rush for Wolff, but stopped when the sweet voice of Mrs. Sheridan was heard above the din. She walked toward the stage singing an old Southern melody and gained the side of the speaker. She sang two other songs and the audience forgot Wolff listening to her.

When she finished order was restored and Upton Sinclair adjourned the meeting. Mrs. Gould had given the I. W. W. sympathizers the use of the theatre after refusing them permission to hold meetings in the village.

NEW BONDS TO MEET INCOME TAX FAILURE

WASHINGTON, June 15.—An early bond issue in order to meet the failure of the income tax on individuals to raise the amount expected by the government.

It is said the total collections are about half what was expected, and this has proved a profound shock to the Democratic leaders.

Another shock comes from the official figures showing that the balance of trade has swung heavily against the United States under the new tariff.

Unless a year change changes matters, the government will face the necessity either of revising the tariff laws or of issuing bonds.

The estimated yield from the income tax was $55,000,000. The actual yield appears to be about $30,000,000.

The bond issue, if floated, would probably be small, would be floated on the Panama Canal and would be explained on the ground of high military expenses following the step into Mexico.

ADELAIDE CHAE TO WED PITTSFIELD MAN

HARVARD FUNCTIONS KEP BOSTON FASHIONABLES BUSY THIS WEEK

Interesting weddings still continue throughout June, and that on the 20th of Miss Adelaide Harvey Chase, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Chase of No. 61 Temple street, West Newton, and Hiram Tuttle Folsom of Pittsfield, will be one of the most interesting of the late month. The ceremony will take place at 8 o'clock in the First Unitarian Church, West Newton, and will be performed by the Rev. Julian C. Haynes, pastor of the church.

Miss Chase is one of the best known members of the younger set in West Newton. Her father is the head of a well known firm of public accountants. Miss Chase is a graduate of Mrs. Von Mock's private school on Beacon street. She has chosen for her maid of honor Miss Louise Dilloway of Montcalm, N. J., a cousin of the bridegroom. Mr. Folsom is a grandson of the late Governor Hiram Tuttle of New Hampshire. After the wedding trip the young couple will make their home in Pittsfield, N. H.

* * *

Today is a busy one for the fashionables, for with weddings and the various Harvard affairs and the Country Club races, every moment will be filled. The annual Harvard Senior Spread will be held this evening in Memorial Hall, and there will be dancing in the hall from 8 o'clock until 1 a. m. The patronesses for this affair are: Mrs. Charles F. Adams, 2d., Mrs. William F. Aspinwall, Mrs. Samuel Bettle, Mrs. M. Gardner Boyd, Mrs. Edward W. Brewer, Mrs. LeBaron R. Briggs, Mrs. Newcomb Carlton, Mrs. William M. Corson, Mrs. F. Walter Clark, Mrs. Frederick I. Converse, Mrs. George W. Cram, Mrs. Charles F. Curtis, Mrs. Nelson Curtis, Mrs. Howard Elliott, Mrs. William W. Fenn, Mrs. Joseph M. Fox, Mrs. Nino Francke, Mrs. Robert H. Gardiner, Mrs. Frederic C. Hood, Mrs. E. E. Hopkins, Mrs. Myron L. Hurlburt, Mrs. C. W. Kettell, Mrs. George L. Kittredge, Mrs. William Lawrence, Mrs. A. Lawrence Lowell, Mrs. Roger B. Merriman, Mrs. H. P. Perkins, Mrs. Benjamin F. Pitman, Mrs. George A. Plimpton, Mrs. Neal Rantoul, Mrs. William M. Ramsdell, Mrs. Richard M. Saltonstall, Mrs. William H. Schofield, Mrs. Arthur B. Smith, Mrs. James J. Storrow, Mrs. Joseph G. Thorp, Mrs. Walter H. Trumbull, Mrs. Arthur W. Walker, Mrs. John W. Weeks, Mrs. Robert D. Weston, Mrs. C. E. L. Wingate, Mrs. Arthur Winslow, Mrs. Joseph C. Willette.

The head usher is William H. Chaflin, Jr.

Memorial Service of Boston Firemen

Wakefield Strikers Ask Town for Jobs

The strike situation at Wakefield shows little sign of improvement. A delegation of strikers and sympathizers have arranged to call on the Selectmen Thursday night to demand that the town appropriate $25,000 additional for highway work. The object in this is to procure jobs for the strikers.

GOLD IN TEETH CHELSEA DEATH CASE PUZZLE

How the body of the Chelsea death case victim found buried under a porch can be that of Thomas Demistroff, the missing Watertown man, when the latter had gold in his teeth, while the victim has none, is a puzzle to the authorities.

There is a belief, however, that the gold may have been removed. Two men have identified the body as Demistroff's. Medical Examiner Magrath was not satisfied that the identification was conclusive, and other friends of Demistroff will view the body this afternoon with Dr. Magrath.

Patrolman Twombly went to Watertown and with Chief of Police Thomas Lyons made inquiries there. They found Charles Ohanian of No. 77 Bigelow avenue, Watertown, a barber, who shaved Demistroff two days before he disappeared.

They also talked with Melkon Loosigian of No. 69 Elm street, Watertown, who worked side by side with the missing Demistroff for several years

Broughton Claims Women Were Saved by Colorado Troops

"The story that women and children were shot, killed and burned during the fighting during the Colorado coal strike and that the members of the national guard were responsible for these outrages is nothing more than a myth," declared Major Edward J. Broughton, judge advocate of the military district of Colorado, in speaking at the Harvard Club.

"The truth of the Ludlow matter is that the State troops, instead of injuring women and children, actually rescued forty of them from the concealed pits under the tents where they had been thrust by the strikers in anticipation of the battle."

Woman Accuses Starrett of Assault

ATHOL, June 15.—The arrest of Leroy S. Starrett, eighty, Athol's wealthiest man, and president of the L. S. Starrett Company, tool manufacturers, on the charge of assaulting Mrs. Fannie Plotkin in a boundary dispute, has created a great sensation. His case has been continued until July .

CARSON BACKER SEES REPUBLIC NEAR IN ENGLAND

"If King George signs the Home Rule measure, he will sacrifice thousands of loyal subjects and will precipitate the destruction of the British Empire. Although I am a loyal subject I will make a fair prediction that there will be a republic in England within five years should this measure be passed," declared S. N. Dancey, one of Sir Edward Carson's lieutenants, addressing Orangemen at Ford Hall.

"If King George signs the bill there will be a consignment of 10,000 men from Australia land on British shores by August 1, ready to take up arms with the Ulster volunteers," he added. "Ulster will never yield and will never come under the jurisdiction of a parliament in Dublin. Woe betide the man who ever dares to come into a county of Ulster to collect taxes for the support of a parliament in Dublin.

"There are thousands of American citizens prepared to go and fight, if a crusis occurs in Ireland."

Asks Son to Return; Mother Near Death

Samuel Long of No. 7 Elcho place, Lynn, has issued the following appeal to his fifteen-year-old son Henry, who disappeared from his home six weeks ago: "My dear son, if you want your mother to live please write me and return home immediately. She has been dangerously ill ever since we last heard from you and the doctor says she will not live unless you return soon. All will be forgiven if you only return."

IT ALL DEPENDS.

A player scooted home from third;
He made a steal that was a bird.
The rooters sang a song of joy,
And cried, "He is a clever boy!"
He tried the play another day;
The foemen flagged him on his way.
The rooters groaned a heavy groan
And cried, "Its head is solid bone!"

If you can get away with it.

Henry Billard is a member of the Indianapolis Feds, but he wouldn't be if John McGraw had seen him first.

Houston is said to have an infielder named Lemon. We presume he is used extensively in the squeeze play.

Australian fight promoters evidently believe in pleasing the fans. Reports from Sydney indicate that they stage a riot after every fight.

OUCH!

The man who slaps you on the back
Will often bring you gladness
And cheer you when the skies are black
And drive away your sadness.
And yet you yearn to change his map
Or smite him with a boulder,
When he implants his healthy slap
Upon your sunburnt shoulder.

"Ghost Bicyclist" Appears in Court

John Seaver of Newton was in court today because, it is charged he rode a bicycle in Auburndale without dressing himself. Patrolman Forrestal thought he saw a spook when a bicycle and its nude rider came noiselessly down Commonwealth avenue at midnight. The patrolman gave chase in an auto, overhauled the "ghost" and took it to the station. The police claim Seaver said he was in swimming and didn't want to take the time to put on his clothes before going home. He had them strapped to his wheel.

By JACK CONWAY.

TWO important ring contests will be staged at local clubs this week. Johnny Gallant, Chelsea's one punch fighter, and Johnny Dundee of New York are scheduled to clash in a twelve-round tussle at the Atlas A. A. tomorrow night, while Joe Egan, the skilful South Boston welterweight, and the best available welterweight will battle before the University club in Cambridge Friday night. Mike Glover was originally scheduled to meet Egan, but he says he will be unable to perform on account of an injured hand.

The contest between Gallant and Dundee has aroused a great deal of interest and the young men who make a business of keeping posted on the rise and fall of the pugilistic market inform us that it will be a regular, big league fight.

We referred to Gallant as Chelsea's one punch fighter. We consider "One Punch" Gallant a good name for Eddie Mack's latest protege as his opponent usually goes to the mat after Johnny had scored with a single solid blow.

So let Gallant be known from hence- henceforth as the "One Punch" ent of our esteemed lightweights. Johnny is one of the most promising boys of his weight in these parts, but this is the first chance he has received to test his ability against that of one of the leaders in his class. He has met all the local lightweights who could be induced to enter a ring with him, and has stopped the majority of them inside of the limit.

Gallant's ability as a hitter has made it difficult for him to secure matches, as those boys who have seen him in action have refused to battle him. They were evidently afraid that Gallant would manage to land one of his famous dream punches. Freddy Duffy of Jamaica Plain and Al Ketchel, the Bridgewater lightweight, were Gallant's latest victims.

DUNDEE is a boxer who does not pick his opponents. He is perfectly willing to clash with all-comers, and that is probably one of the reasons why he is classed with the leading men of his weight in the world. The New York Italian fought a twenty-round draw with Johnny Kilbane when he was performing in the featherweight class, but of late he has been battling with the lightweights.

DUNDEE recently fought a twelve-round draw with Matty Baldwin at the Arena. He is a fast, elusive boxer and is also able to punch hard with either hand. If he decides to stand in the centre of the ring and exchange blows with Gallant as he did with Baldwin, one of the contestants is very liable to be knocked out.

JOHNNY COULON, the former bantamweight champion, still believes he is as good as ever. The little Chicago boxer says that he intends to take a long rest and that he will then enter the ring again. Coulon plans to engage in six and ten round whirls in the East, and if he regains his former strength he will try and land another "go" with "Kid" Williams.

COULON is evidently no different from the rest of our former title holders. They all believe that they can "come back" after they have gone down to defeat. Battling Nelson fought for several years after losing his title to Wolgast while it would be an almost impossible task to convince Wolgast that he is not a better fighter than Willie Ritchie.

COULON was a great little fighter four years ago, but he has been on the toboggan for some time. Poor health has been a big factor in causing his downfall. History proves that there have been only a few boxers who have been able to "come back" after they have once been beaten badly.

THE recent bout between Coulon and Williams drew $16,384. Coulon received 40 per cent, which amounted to $6,553. He also got $1,000 from Sammy Harris, Williams' manager, for signing to fight the Baltimore tiger. This made his share $7,553. Williams received a guarantee of $2,500, but after Coulon had been paid his $1,000 bonus the new champion's end only amounted to $1,500. But Williams is now the champion. So he should worry.

WILLIAMS is planning to go into vaudeville for several months. He will probably open his engagement in New York city at a salary of $1,000 a week.

"Tell by the Taste"

BIG SHAKE-UP OF AMERICAN POLO PLAYERS

By JAMES S. MITCHEL.

NEW YORK, June 15.—A change is certain in the lineup of the American polo cup defenders.

The humiliating defeat of Saturday has prompted the Polo Association to quick and drastic action.

It is the intention of the governing polo body in this country to remove from the lineup Rene La Montagne, who played so feebly at No. 1, and to substitute Malcolm Stevenson.

There will be a complete shift in the lineup for the second match at Meadowbrook tomorrow. The new combination will take the field as follows:

No. 1, Larry Waterbury; No. 2, J. M. Waterbury, Jr.; No. 3, Malcolm Stevenson; back, Devereux Milburn.

This shift in the team will put the Waterburys and Milburn back in the positions in which they did the great work in the Internationals in days gone by. It was with this lineup, Whitney at No. 3, that the American team brought back the cup in 1909 and kept it here since.

It was learned today that the Polo Association will make an official announcement of the above combination this afternoon.

There is a strong possibility that the game scheduled for tomorow afternoon may be postponed. As a result of a heavy downpour of rain the playing field today is too soft for safe playing and it is not likely that the grounds will ry sufficiently to allow the game.

Sidelights on Sports

By A. H. C. MITCHELL

THE Cubs are here—the once formidable Cubs. They are not the same aggregation that was feared by every other club in the National League three or four years back. Nobody fears them now.

Charles Webb Murphy wrecked the Chicago Cubs. He got rid of Chance and Evers and Tinker and then kicked himself out of baseball—at least out of the limelight.

* * *

MANAGERS of Federal League clubs complain that Joe Tinker, manager of the Chifeds, has all the umpires in the league "buffaloed," and that all the indicator men in that organization, except Brennan and McCormick, are afraid of Tinker, who always has President Gilmore's ear and who never fails to threaten a green official.

* * *

GILMORE recently had Umpire Bush, one of the best arbitrators in the organization, on the carpet on complaint of Manager Knabe of Baltimore and Manager Stovall of Kansas City. Three or four days ago at Indianapolis Bush ordered five Baltimore players to the clubhouse to maintain discipline. Knabe put up an awful howl and only desisted when Bush threatened to evict him.

Next day Bush was transferred to Kansas City, where he also ordered players from the field and incurred Stovall's displeasure. Both managers threatened to "get Bush's job."

* * *

GILMORE'S policy is not to allow Federal League umpires to eject "star" players from a game. He listens to every complaint from disgruntled magnates or managers. Bush said after the interview with Gilmore that he didn't know where he stood.

* * *

ACCORDING to the best of reports, the St. Louis Federals are having hard times to make ends meet, for little money has been coming in the gates. The Browns are getting all the money now and will just so long as they show class as a ball team.

Things are coming Colonel Hedges' way. When the Yankees were there last week attendance figures were especially good and they have had the Federals in opposition.

* * *

AN idea of the conditions that the Federals are drawing in St. Louis can be told in a few words. They haven't the fans with them and best proof of this is shown by the gate receipts. On Monday, June 8, the paid admissions at the Federal League numbered ten persons. On Tuesday they were twenty-six. The others went through the press gate on passes. With the Yankees' games, the Browns drew over 3,000 daily, the best week day attendance the new Yankees have played to in St. Louis in a long time.

TITLE MIXUP FOR SPRINTERS IN BIKE RACES

With the national championships only two months away, the bike fans, especially those who follow the sprint end of the game, are all at sea as to just who is going to pull down the honors for 1914.

In other years it was generally a walkaway for Frank Kramer, but up to date the champion has been having a hard row to hoe.

The series to date brings three big men in the limelight as possible candidates: Kramer, the American champion; Rutt, the German title-holder, and Alfred Goullet, the Australian speed king.

Rutt seems to have the Indian sign on Kramer, while Goullet manages to beat out the German every time they meet. Kramer and the Australian have not had a really good run in so far this season.

Tomorrow night, however, the veteran champion, will have his chance when he is pitted against Goullet at the Revere track in a special match race, two in three, and the result of this match will have a great bearing on the outcome of the national race.

Rutt defeated Kramer last evening at Newark, while Goullet scored a victory over the German at the beach track last Tuesday night, and tomorrow night's winner can safely lay claim to the title until the big races are run off.

YALE MEN BALK AT CREW BETS

HARVARD TRAINING QUARTERS, Red Top, New Haven, Ct., June 15.—The Crimson crews are ready for the big races with the Yale oarsmen and with the exception of one grand-final try-out, today or tomorrow, the Harvard men will spend the next few days resting up.

The Harvard crews took life easy yesterday. The varsity again went out on R. F. Herrick's launch Gypsy, for a sail down Long Island Sound to Gardiners Bay. Here a swim was enjoyed and then luncheon on board the boat.

The freshmen went down river to the Hotel Griswold for dinner. They also enjoyed a plunge at Ocean Beach.

A member of the Harvard crew visited the Yale quarters incognito and offered to bet a large amount of money that Harvard's varsity crew would win the yearly race.

Much to his surprise it was found that the members of Eli's family would not put up any money and showed no inclination to bet. This was in the nature of a surprise, as it had been rumored hereabouts that the showing made by Yale's varsity crew last week had caused the Blue's representatives to bubble over with enthusiasm.

The Harvard men are well supplied with money and a number of them are willing to plunge a good sized wad on their favorites.

A report was made that while the Yale men are inclined to be somewhat enthusiastic over the showing made by the crew, yet they are not willing to put up any money at this time to back up their judgment.

The successive defeats administered to the Eli crews is undoubtedly responsible for this and Harvard men figure that the already good showing will have to be re-enforced by showings made when the conditions are not so favorable.

There is no gainsaying the fact that conditions were exceptional during the trial when such satisfying time was made by the Yale crew, but nevertheless it greatly heartened the local men and boys of the New Haven College.

TAPS—"GOOD NIGHT!"
Reveille—"Good Morning!"

You will always be sure to have a good morning if you take "Taps" the night before. The reason, nearly always, for your feeling dull and without ambition is that the way we live nowadays there is frequently waste in the lower intestine, whether we are constipated or not. The poisons in this waste are taken up by the blood circulation and make us sluggish—really ill, if it goes too far.

"Taps" is a medically perfect laxative which assists Nature gently to rid you of this waste—stimulates torpid liver—and absolutely prevents the cause of 95% of human illness, Auto-Intoxication.

"Taps" is in tablet form for "Grown-Ups." "Taps-Jr." is a milder chocolate candy laxative for the "Kiddies." Just try a box at your druggist's today. Only a dime for a trial

P. B. Ale

P. B. Ale offers the advantage of over 90 years' Brewing Experience.

Sir Isaac Newton sat one day
Upon his lawn at home,
An apple from the tree above
Smote Isaac on the dome.
"The law of Gravity—" said Ike,
The shock made him grow pale,
"The greatest find in many years,
Excepting P. B. Ale."

Make an important discovery yourself TODAY—find out just how good P. B. will taste to your parched throat.

If it isn't good it is NOT P. B.

HARVARD SQUAD LEAVES TO PLAY 1ST YALE GAME

By OTTO B. HANSON.

The Harvard [illegible] squad [illegible] consisting of seventeen players, three managers, Coach [illegible] and Trainer Bob Fowler left [illegible] o'clock train [illegible] for New Haven to play [illegible] the [illegible] series [illegible] Yale [illegible] The squad [illegible] manager [illegible] 2 20

The team will [illegible] practice on the Yale field [illegible] tonight [illegible] of the Yale [illegible] The team will return to New Haven tomorrow morning [illegible] stop at Hotel Taft.

Corwin [illegible] selected to [illegible] the series and the games will start at 3 p. m.

CRIMSON PLAYERS CONFIDENT.

The Crimson [illegible] expressed [illegible] confidence in beating Yale [illegible] the series. Captain Wingate says that his men will play the right kind of ball, and [illegible] absence of the coach from the bench will cause any trouble.

The pitching department is the only thing that is causing the supporters of Harvard any worry. Captain Wingate has Eddie Mahan, Rex Hitchcock, "Marnie" Frye and Wilmot Whitney ready to pitch in the series, but Mahan is the only one that can really be relied upon to be steady.

The work of Wilmot Whitney in the game last Saturday against [illegible] put him in the limelight, and it would not be surprising to see him in the box in the opening game against Yale tomorrow. Whitney proved to be an eleventh-hour find. He has a lot of stuff, is cool as an iceberg and uses good judgment.

WHITNEY OR FRYE FOR BOX.

If Whitney is not elected to start Frye is the next choice. Frye has only had fair success this season but in his last few starts has shown a little improvement, and he may pitch a good game against the blue nines if he is started.

Rex Hitchcock is not expected to figure in the Yale series at all unless Frye and Whitney go bad. Hitchcock is too wild to take part in such an important battle.

Eddie Mahan is expected to start the game against Yale on Soldiers Field on Wednesday and he is picked to return the winner.

DEFIANCE READY TO RACE

REAL TEST COMES JUNE 23

By HARRY C. THOMAS.

NEW YORK, June 1[illegible].—[illegible] the boat Defiance is going to fight from [illegible] on in the trial races with the Resolute and Vanitie. The men that are interested in the big New England built and Boston designed boat are [illegible] a bit disgruntled over [illegible] the boat has been having [illegible] will be at the starting line off [illegible] Captain's Island, Long Island Sound June 23, for the race between the three boats under the direction of the Indian Harbor Yacht Club of Greenwich, Ct.

Captain Sebat R. Howell puts it [illegible]:

"We got a line on the Resolute and Vanitie in the first race we started in at Sandy Hook, but they haven't any line on us."

Captain Howell remarked with the [illegible] at Jacobs [illegible] Base [illegible] George Owen of Newton, went [illegible] to Bath, Me., to get [illegible] fittings for the [illegible] of rig [illegible].

KICKUP OVER BRASS CAP.

There has [illegible] been more or less discussion [illegible] brass cap that was placed on the end of the bowsprit of the Defiance. It caused a lot of [illegible] the boat [illegible] Bath, Me.

It was [illegible] but at [illegible] sort of [illegible] discussion.

Several weeks [illegible] brass cap was [illegible] its place was a mahogany [illegible].

None of those interested [illegible] Defiance would say much of anything about why this cap had been taken off but the [illegible] today with a [illegible] the cap was removed from the bowsprit of the Defiance at the suggestion of the committee of the New York Yacht Club, [illegible] of the racing of the [illegible] boats.

This little piece of brass was the first kickup and change that came into the career of the boat. [illegible] built boat, and now [illegible] bowsprit has been removed.

PRAISE FOR SKIPPER HOWELL.

The bowsprit [illegible] has been a sort of Jonah for this boat ever since it began to be tested for sailing, and now [illegible] for good, and when [illegible] Defiance from now [illegible] somewhat [illegible]

[illegible] Howell [illegible] of the [illegible]

[illegible] Captain Howell [illegible] whereby [illegible] S. Pynchon, the managing [illegible] of the Defiance syndicate, [illegible] a start in one race and Howell will make it the next race day. But Howell from now out is going to be skipper.

Pynchon says that Howell is just as good if not a better skipper than Bill Dennis of the Vanitie.

So far as harmony is concerned aboard the Defiance, the deck of the mahogany racer will have regular love feasts and perhaps a hugging [illegible] boat should win a race or two.

HARD RACE FOR RESOLUTE.

With the new rig the Defiance will have to be reckoned [illegible] by the officials of the New York Yacht Club. There [illegible] question that the Resolute will have to give time and [illegible] Defiance has any speed at all. [illegible] now on [illegible] out [illegible] of the races, as she will have to beat the Vanitie [illegible] and will then have to give up some of this time to the Defiance.

It will make Charlie Adams keep [illegible] boat going pretty much all the time.

[illegible] of the [illegible] will be hauled out this week for the race on June 23.

There is one member of the crew of the Defiance that is very anxious to have this boat win. He don't hold any particular job aboard the boat except cabin boy, [illegible] next friend to Captain Howell.

WANTS TO WIN OR SINK

His name is Oscar Wichard and he lives next door to Captain Howell and his family at Atlantic Highlands, N. J. This youngster is twelve years old and has been aboard the Defiance ever since the boat was launched at Bath, Me.

In the first race last week off Sandy Hook the Defiance withdrew when it was almost opposite the homes of Captain Howell and young Wichard.

To have to go over from Sandy Hook that night to Atlantic Highlands and [illegible] some of his young companions [illegible] that he was aboard a [illegible] that was no good did [illegible] to Wichard and he has [illegible]

He [illegible] to go out [illegible]

He [illegible] but he says [illegible] take a chance on [illegible]

CUBS HERE FOR 4-GAME SERIES WITH BRAVES

The Chicago Cubs open a four-game series with the Braves today. This will be the former's first appearance here this season, and with them will be Bill Sweeney, a former local star. Sweeney has kept up his reputation of being one of the best second basemen in the league, and is playing commendable ball for Manager O'Day.

Manager O'Day has his entire club with him, including President Charles Thomas, who is making the eastern circuit with the team. Jimmy Archer, the club's star catcher, who cracked a bone in his right elbow in Brooklyn, was left behind. Archer's injury was serious and he will be out of the game for nearly a month and Roger Bresnahan will do all the catching while he is out.

The Cub pitchers are in good trim and the Braves will see them at their best, for they desire to obtain revenge for the trimming Stallings' gang gave them in Chicago. Larry Cheney or Jim Vaughn will twirl the opener here. George Pierce, Bert Humphries and Zabel will probably be seen in the others.

Manager O'Day may make a change in his club while here. He may place Art Phelan at short in place of Keating, who is weak with the stick. Phelan has been bothered with a lame knee and if he is ready will be put in the batting order.

The Cubs are going at a fairly good clip. Frank Schulte has started to hit and it has made a vast difference in the work and the success of the club. Zimmerman, Good, Saier and Leach are pounding the ball heavily.

The Cubs also have their new secretary, Rube Cooke, with them. Cooke succeeded Charley Williams.

WOOD SLATED TO TAKE TURN IN BOX TODAY

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 1[illegible].—Joe Wood is about ready to take his regular turn on the hill for the Boston Red Sox, and, with Joe in condition, prospects of the Hubites [illegible] into the first division, also [illegible] a pennant contender, brighten considerably.

Manager Carrigan stated today that he thought he would give Wood a chance in the series here with the Browns. This is one club Joe could always lick, and it is probable that the speed ball king will get the opportunity to try himself without exerting himself to the limit.

The Red Sox entered here for the first time this season yesterday and appeared [illegible] While the Sox [illegible] other cities around the American League circuit the only snappier ball in St. Louis [illegible] or the other first division [illegible].

THE OLD HEAT ALIBI.

The Nationals were here [illegible] and lost three out of four to the Browns [illegible] series [illegible] outfit [illegible] that the excessive heat of St. Louis was responsible for the slump of the Nationals.

It was [illegible] it may be warm [illegible] neighborhood [illegible] the summer, but for years and years the heat never has interfered with the [illegible] of the Boston Red Sox.

The Nationals lost three out of four here because [illegible] were outplayed by the Browns [illegible] form a joke aggregation.

This is an important series for Carrigan, and he has a chance to jump into the first [illegible] taming the Browns. [illegible] game was a huge success, the [illegible] being easy, 10 to 1 [illegible] the bats of the Red Sox figured prominently.

Three local curvers were bumped for 14 hits, which totalled up to 21 bases. "Dutch" Leonard was in his stride, and he held the Browns to three stingy hits, a single, double and home run. The circuit clout was produced by Tillie Walker, when the Sox had a lead of 7.

SPEAKER BACK IN STRIDE.

Tris Speaker is getting in his hitting stride. He gathered three today and boosted his average several points.

Getting rid of Earl Hamilton [illegible] for the Red Sox. [illegible] will have Carl Weilman, another southpaw, and probably [illegible] Baumgartner to face [illegible]

[illegible] Walter Leverenz [illegible] the games. Leverenz contracted a sore arm in the World's tour, and although this is June 15, he has not started a single game for the Browns.

Pete, Dog Mascot, Gets His Release

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 15.—Pete, the brindle mascot of the Columbia crew quarters got his release last night. It had been decided to keep the dog, who forced himself upon the hospitality of the oarsmen by falling from a passing steamer and swimming to to the Columbia float. He was a great pet even if he did bark at night and was the cause of the launch breaking down. However, fate willed that Pete must be sacrificed on the 13th of the month. The crew men stubbornly resisted his leaving but Pete went on the railroad tracks and this morning his body was found cut in two.

Boston College High and Rindge Manual Training School of Cambridge meet today at Fenway Park in a game that will go a long way toward deciding the State championship, which both teams claim. The game will precede the Boston College-Holy Cross game.

Great interest is manifest in the schoolboy nines, as each team has a large following.

Tallant Wins Then Loses Tennis Play

NEW YORK, June 15.—The second day of the Metropolitan Tennis Championship contributed a reversal, as Hugh Tallant, Harvard ex-captain, beat T. R. Pell, 6—3, 7—5, on the clay courts of the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, Long Island.

Robert LeRoy, ex-intercollegiate champion, beat Tallant in his next match, 6—8, 6—2. F. B. Alexander the internationalist, and R. L. Murray, the young Californian, also won easily.

Boston College and Holy Cross of Worcester fight it out to a finish at Fenway Park this afternoon. Holy Cross looks like a sure winner, but the local collegians have been reserving their forces for Holy Cross and are sure to put up the best article of ball that they possess.

Either Woods or Halloran will be on the slab for Boston. Both men have been twirling in fine style and there is little choice between them. For Holy Cross, R. Murray looks like the logical choice.

Governor David I. Walsh, Mayor James M. Curley and Mrs. Curley, ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Fitzgerald and many others prominent in civic and business life have promised to attend.

Yale Oarsmen Have Day of Rest

NEW LONDON, Ct., June 1[illegible].—F. Lauder's schooner yacht, Endymion, took the Yale squad out for a sail on Long Island Sound yesterday. The freshmen were also away from Red Top during the day having been invited aboard Mrs. E. H. Harriman's steam yacht Sultana, which went as far as Montauk Point.

White flags have marked the half miles along the four-mile course for the past two weeks. Today red and blue flags were added and the coxswains now will be able to steer through the lanes they will pass through in their respective races.

The toss for positions on the course will not take place until Thursday, the day before the varsity races.

Marsans Plays First Game with Federals

ST. LOUIS, June 15.—The die is cast as far as Armando Marsans and organized baseball are concerned. Marsans has donned a St. Louis Federal uniform and played a smashing game at short for Brown's team in his first game.

It is reported that the Cincinnati club will file injunction proceedings against Marsans in the St. Louis courts tomorrow. The St. Louis Federals may also ask for an injunction restraining the Cincinnati club and the National League from interfering with Marsans.

Yale Men Confident of Beating Harvard

NEW HAVEN, June 15.—The Yale team is back in New Haven in a more happy frame of mind than the players have been in at any time this season.

The victory over Princeton on Saturday has restored Yale's confidence and the team will go into the Harvard game tomorrow determined to win if possible. "Pie" Way will probably start in the box.

A Bachelor's Diary

How Two Women Treated Him When He Stood at the Foot of the Ladder

By MAX

MAY 10—Max the Millionaire has become Max of a million cases, and, Friend Diary, he is almost tempted to put himself on record as liking it!

It scarcely seems as if a fortune that was so long in the making could be so quick in the breaking. But stocks and bonds that were over-watered sank, securities that were insecure toppled over, a few trusted servants were faithless, and I failed utterly as steward of my grandfather's fortune. That was no reason why the widowed and orphans should suffer and—Y. & Company paid its obligations to everyone but its owner. They call it an honorable failure, Friend Diary, and sneer at the fool who made it. But that "fool" feels like a free man and is prepared to rebuild on a firmer foundation.

A NEW WAY

The old firm will not reorganize. I am going to start out at once to look for a position. Manette is to go to a public school and both of us will live in the boarding house. Richards and Tompkins are going to start housekeeping. It appears they have been in love for a long time—now they are "free to marry," as they put it, and to pool their savings in this venture.

All of that is settled in a sane and business-like manner. And now I can leave my extremely low "high finance" and devote myself for a moment or two to my sentimental interests. Heretofore they have taken up my whole life. I wonder how much time I shall have from now on for love and laughter!

When my little Elizabeth left me all my friends sent flowers and gifts of fruits and books and wrote me letters of well-meaning, but not comfort-bringing sympathy. Little Manette used to creep to my side, and hand in hand in wordless sorrow we would mourn for her little lost sister.

Death is an honorable sorrow. Friends dare speak of it and so they pry into the wound.

But loss of fortune is a disgrace in man's eyes—and woman's, too. So they leave you mercifully alone.

If it were not for two things I should be almost happy at the prospect of looking for work, Friend Diary. I wonder if Manette will reproach me some day for bringing her up to her fourteenth birthday with the idea that she was a rich man's niece and heiress and then managing to lose my fortune and most of hers. For I am practicing a little deceit. When I protected the other orphans I tok care of Manette, too, and there is a snug little sum drawing first mortgage interest at a safe 4½ per cent, which will belong to little Manette when she is twenty-one.

A SECRET

But no one knows that except you and me and a shrewd lawyer, Diary mine. Manette is not going to start life handicapped by any false or fawning friends who cultivate her because she is to have money some day.

Besides the possibility that my little Manette scorns me as a failure, I have only one other trouble, Diary. For I refuse to consider the loss of five millions of cold gold dollars a real woe.

The trouble is this, Have I lost love with fortune?

Two letters lie before me. I shall copy them here.

DEAR MR. MAN:

I was so grieved to read in yesterday's American of your trouble. If I were coming back to Boston for any length of time I should want you to let me come to see you and Manette. But I am going abroad for the Summer with a client, Mrs. Darrow, who prefers a nurse to a maid on her trip, as she has with her a son who is just convalescing from typhoid.

I am so glad you are perfectly well again. That will aid you so much in facing difficulty.

I wish you all the success in the world. I'm sure some of your old friends will find a good berth for you. You are still a young man and can go far, I know.

Always Sincerely,

JESSIE BOYCE.

Isn't that a cold little letter, Diary? Did my pretty little nurse see me in a golden haze of millions? Does she despise me for a failure—an old man who is down and out? She says I am "still a young man," but is that a case of sweet and twenty patronizing nearly forty?

How old is this young Darrow who is just convalescing from typhoid, and whose guardian angel my pretty nurse will be in the setting of Europe?

Diary, I am miserable and jealous. Am I to find myself really in love with a woman just as she becomes unattainable? I hesitated to play King to the Beggar Maid of Jessie Boyce. And now she is going to become the supreme desire of my heart, just as I become a derelict in life's sea whom she will avoid while she goes asearching for nobler craft?

I think my pretty nurse means to withdraw herself gently from my horizon. And that gives me a desire to peep over and see what she is doing on the other side of the world. Is that masculine stubbornness, or baffled love? I confess I cannot decide.

ONE FROM SALLY

The other letter is from Sally Spencer. It puzzles me almost as much as the one from the little nurse.

DEAR MAX:

I wonder if you are too busy readjusting your own affairs to help a bit with mine? I know we quarreled over your silly jealousy of the Count, but such old friends as we don't break friendships for one quarrel, do we? So, you will help me, if posible, won't you?

Jack left things in the worst possible muddle, and I know the estate is being mismanaged so I lose money all the time. Can't you recommend some clever, reliable man who will act as business manager for me—tend to investments and securities and keep me from losing yearly thousands? I can pay $6,000 a year—not a princely sum, but I am sure it will pay me, and perhaps a clever man could manage my affairs and make a bit on the side, too.

Do give careful thought to this, Max, and come over tomorrow for tea, if you can, to advise me. Don't fail me. I need your assistance or sharpers and cheaters will eat up my little estate. Till tomorrow at 4. Yours very faithfully,

SALLY.

Was ever charity more generously offered, Diary? This is the woman I so offended by slighting her for my little nurse that pride forced her to say "she hoped she would never see me again." Now she has written me a letter in which no word belittles or shames me. She is the first of my friends to lend a hand. And she offers me the post of private secretary, at princely wages, under guise of a dignified business managership and almost as if it were a favor to her.

Can I take this position, Diary? Can I refuse it?

Tomorrow I shall go to Sally's for tea. And now that her generosity and my own weakness—weakness in love as in business—have put her quite beyond my reach, I ask myself—"Is not Sally Spencer the woman I could have loved if I had not been a selfish egotist?

Fortune is gone—I wonder if love is lost with it!

(In the next instalment Max tells how he found a position and an old friend returned to his life.)

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

I WAS telling Ma & Pa about a birthday party wich I had been to & about a littel gurl that promised I cud walk hoam with her after the party & then walked hoam with a other fellow. It made me kind of mad, beckaus she was hoamly & the only reason I asked her was beckaus I was afraide nobody else wud walk hoam with her.

Doant worry about it, Bobbie, sed Ma, the poor littel girl must have been so exited that she forgot wich boy she shud have had for her escort. It was a mistaik.

Yes, sed Pa, it was a mistaik. It is the saim mistaik that littel gurls & big ones have made ever since the time they caim on this planet. As long as thay are setting in the corner thay will smile & accept anybody's invitashun to dance or walk hoam, but wen thay get the yung men flocking around them it doesnt taik them long to fergit the one wich started the stampede in thare direckshun. Doant mind, Bobbie, sed Pa, you are that much better off, beckaus you saved a extra walk & found out her per-fidee beefoar it was too late. She will never maik you much of a sweetheart anyway, sed Pa, beckaus if she will dubbel cross you wen she is nine or ten years old, thare is no telling how hard she will throw you into the discard wen you & she git to be sweet sixteen.

You seem to be vary moody & sinnickal tonite, deerest, sed Ma. Anybody wud think that you had been crossed in lev sumthing terribul in yure yunger days.

No, sed Pa, that is not it. I was never crossed in luv, but I offen think of the hundreds of times wen I was a yung beau that gurls wud shake thare steddy fellows jest to have me walk hoam with them & jest to lissen to my voice. In them days, Pa sed, I always poss-essed a strange, magnet-like attrackshun for the gurls. Whether it was my face or my up-right carriage, Pa sed, I know that thay jest cuddent keep thare eyes off of me & many the homely, honest guy I cut out, tho I dident want to.

You wunderful man, sed Ma. I think it was perfeckly noabel for a hansom yung heero like you to pass up all them queens and marry poor littel me. The wonder of it offen holds me spellbound, Ma sed, & lots of nites, wen I am setting up waiting for you to cum hoam, I thank the stars that I was so fortunat as to have won yure favor.

Well, said Pa, in a way you were kind of lucky, & yet you have always been a good wife & a loving mother. That is worth moar than all the butiful queens that I mite have called my wife if I had wished to.

I never saw but two of the gurls that you used to go with, sed Ma. Thay was both frights. One of them had a mole on her cheek & the other limped when she walked.

Oh, sed Pa, but long beefoar that, beefoar I knew you, I had scores of gurls in luv with me, luvly gurls with faces like spring's farest flours & forms of airy buty. Bobbie will be the saim way wen he gits a littel oalder, sed Pa, beekaus he looks hansumer & moar like me every day.

I doant want a lot of gurls, I sed to Pa. Wen I git oald enuff I want to marry a gurl like Ma.

Ma is going to git me a fish pole.

CHAPTER TWO.

Failure and Its Results.

BUT Atwood's suit with Mildred was not progressing at all. He followed her out into an anteroom after Miss Destinn's spectacular performance in the lions' den, and intent on waking this girl to something else besides the childish side of life, he did the wrong thing and frightened her.

Mildred ceased laughing and turned to look at her suitor, who stood before her, his eyes moody, his face stern.

"Marry you?" she said. "Why, you are as old as father. Besides, I don't want to marry any one. I don't like men when they're serious." And she shivered slightly and then turned and fled, leaving the man furious at being balked just when his most cherished possession seemed almost within sight.

The next day he sent a short note to Mr. Dennison, which ran thus—

"In view of the fact that your daughter Mildred prefers not to marry me, the proposition of financial assistance is not further considered."

Mr. Dennison dropped his face in his hands. Who was going to provide for his daughters, and what would they do without some one to look out for them? Try as he had, his life had been a failure. The next day, when the directors were to hold their meeting, he would have to confess that he was unable to meet his obligations. There was nothing to do but admit failure and step out. Of course it was the weak way of ending things, but men in their extremity always choose the weaker way.

THE TRAGEDY.

Two days later Mr. Dennison was found lying back in a chair in the library, a revolver hole through his temple. Helen and Mildred were alone in the world, two helpless girls, utterly incapable of the task that lay before them.

But Helen Dennison was better equipped than the world gave her credit for being; she still had her lions. At first the girls had thought of selling them to a menagerie or a circus, but then a better idea struck Helen one day when she was puzzling over money affairs, and after confiding it to Mildred the two girls decided to put their scheme in operation. What they needed was a man to help out, and they decided that an advertisement in the paper would solve that part of the problem in short order.

WANTED.

Young man to assist two artists in performance with trained lions.

"It must be the girls," he muttered to himself; "their father's business reverses and suicide; and now Helen is going to use her lions to bring a possible livelihood."

But Mildred and Helen Dennison were dumbfounded the next morning, when young Garry called in answer to the advertisement.

THE PLANS.

"Who else has a better right?" he answered, boyishly, holding up the newspaper. "Do you think I'm going to let any one get ahead of me on a deal like this?" Helen came in at that moment, and in a few minutes the three were planning the sketch that Helen felt sure would capture the fickle public. Its very daring was strongly in its favor, and as the girls had already made arrangements with the manager, who was highly prepossessed with the idea, a rehearsal was decided on immediately.

The idea was a sketch requiring three characters. Mildred was cast as a young native girl and Gerry was to be her lover. Helen was a lion tamer and there was to be a famous dance of death in the lions' den. The first rehearsal went beautifully, without a hitch, so far as outward appearances went. But already discord was being sown between the trio. Helen knew that Gerry was madly in love with Mildred and that she reciprocated it. She also knew that she herself would have relinquished everything for the love of this one man. With a situation such as this underneath the surface, it can well be imagined that friction of some kind was soon to result. But no one at this stage of the drama had any idea of the vast proportions the green-eyed monster had assumed, nor of the horrible ending in store for one of the characters in the eternal triangle.

One of the Most Sensational Stories Ever Written

The Yellow Ticket

Russia's Persecution of the Jews Fully Exposed

Adapted from the play presented by A. H. Woods and written by Michael Morton.

(Novelized)

By A. A. WATERBURY.

Copyright, 1914, by International News Service.

Anna Mirrel devoted a moment to remembering her dead—and then she went on to the end of her bitter tale.

"I want to go to America, but at the port the authorities told me that though the Yellow Ticket made me a free woman in Russia it was a bar to my entering any other country, and so I was obliged to remain here. Through my knowledge of English I obtained employment and the protection of a home—but never for long—I was always having to move from one place to another to escape the police—they watched me. . . . I was the holder of a Yellow Ticket and there was a grave charge against me—I was evading the bargain I had made to get beyond the pale. . . . The police accused me of leading a respectable life.

"Now you know why I stole the Christian girl's name and passport. She was dead—they were of no use to her. And although I am a Jewess at heart and shall always be I took Marya Varenka's name because in that way only did I see a chance to lead the life of a God-fearing well-brought up girl of my people wants to live.

"And now the police have taken away my last defence. . . . I am a Jewess, what does that mean—a label. I'm a GIRL like any other girl labeled Protestant or Catholic. I have feelings—hopes—ideals just as they have. . . . My only wish is to lead a decent, self-respecting life with decent people. But they won't let me—they hound me and always hound me—and where am I to end?"

A WAIL OF TERROR.

Her voice rose in a little wail of terror; but soon years of self-repression and service claimed Anna Mirrel again. She shivered—and then added in a colorless and hopeless voice, as if she knew the verdict in advance:

"Forgive me for keeping you so long."

Margery started toward her, but Seaton, with a quiet masterfulness, led his daughter to the door of the dining room. With a little sob Margery nestled weakly in the sanctuary of her loving father's embrace. Rolfe started toward the girl who had imperilled more than life for her dead father. He started toward her, but she shook her head wearily and closed the door between them. She felt she must shut even him out of her life now and bear her shame alone. Rolfe stood staring at the closed door. No one spoke; death seemed to be in the chill air of the room.

The doors of the dining room were thrown open and the waiter announced, "The tea is served, sir."

Back of him lay his handiwork—a table set in burnished silver and magnificently embroidered linen. From one samovar arose a warm, inviting aroma of rich coffee; another urn held tea steeped from priceless leaves brought overland from the Orient. On one side of a closed door lay warmth and safety and the conventional elegance of an afternoon tea; on the other a white-faced girl prepared to go alone into the perils of St. Petersburg's twilight. Margery dried her tears and started toward the closed door.

THE TURNING POINT

"Margery!" cried John Seaton sharply, as if he were waking a sleepwalker, "will you serve the tea, please?" he added, more conventionally.

"Come, Margery," said Nikolai Rostov.

The girl hesitated as if in rebellion. Her lover took her arm and said gently: "Come with me, dear."

And Margery followed Count Rostov.

"Mr. Rolfe, won't you join us?" said John Seaton.

In a dazed fashion, Rolfe turned from that closed door before which he had been keeping vigil.

"No—I'm afraid I'd be bad company just now, Mr. Seaton. You must excuse me." And Julian Rolfe hurried from the room.

At a sign from the Baron the waiter quickly closed the dining room doors, shutting the revel away from knowledge of what the head of the Okrana was about to order. Another quick signal from Baron Andrey and the man went to the door behind which Anna Mirrel was moving about. The Baron jerked open the hall door and Petrov Paviac hurried in.

"Did the American see you as he passed you in the hall?" asked the master imperiously.

Paviac shook his head. No, Excellency.

"Good. Follow the girl and visit her—in her room this afternoon. When she threatens to come to me—leave her at once. And remember after that I am—her friend."

"She's coming!" warned the waiter.

Baron Andrey fairly shoved Paviac from the room. The waiter made short shrift of getting into the dining room.

Anna Mirrel's door opened and a pale, dejected woman came from it. Her twenty years of girlhood seemed to have held decades of woe. The baron met her with a quiet air of sympathy that was almost paternal in its kindness.

"One moment, please. I cannot tell you how shocked I am at your unfortunate experience," he said in a tone of studied kindness. Anna Mirrel heard the voice and her sad face brightened. Her sentinel soul did not warn her to look deep into the eyes that mirrored the covetous old heart.

"Should you again at any time be molested by the police, do not hesitate—come to me at once. Do you understand?—at once—and I will give you a card. You must look upon me as your friend. I will help you," said Baron Andrey.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

Little Mary's Essays

—BABIES—

By DOROTHY DIX

BABIES are what poor women has, but rich ladies has Pomeranian dogs, which are more stylisher. Also when folks ride in automobiles they take along their dog, but they leave their children at home.

I wish I had been born a Pomeranian with a blue bow on my neck, but I never had no luck, anyway.

A baby looks red like a boiled lobster, but it sounds like the fog horn on the steamer in a fog when you go to Bangor. Babies has no hair, and no teeth, but they has lots of voice.

Babies is a deceitful nature, for they looks small and weak, but they is the strongest of all known animals, and can wear out the biggest man when he tries to take care of one.

Babies sleep in the daytime, and wake up and holler at night. My papa says that the reason Mr. Roosevelt likes babies is because they are both the Big Noise.

There are a great many different kind of babies. There is the First Baby that folks make a big fuss over and give silver cups and rings to, and say, "Oh, ain't it perfectly grand, and just the living image of its papa and mama," and the papa and mama smile, and stick out their chests, and look just as pleased as if you had paid them a compliment, though goodness knows I don't see why anybody would be flattered at that. I'd think they'd be mad. I would if anybody told me that I was like something that looked part fishing worm and part cream cheese.

Then there is the Second Baby that nobody don't notice much, and that the papa says looks like the mama's folks, and the mama says is got a snub nose and no chin just like the papa's folks.

Then there is the Third Baby that everybody says, "what a pity," and then there's the Fourth Baby that all the Near Relations and friends say is "Outrageous," and that they don't blame the papa for taking to drink.

People who have four babies are considered Queer, and nobody invites them to come to see them, for fear they will bring the babies along.

The funniest thing about babies is the way they make folks talk, and act up. When a grown-up sees a baby he begins grinning and punches the poor little baby in its side and says, "Bess it's itty heartums, does it googly-goo?" And if the grown-up is a woman she kisses the baby 4,789,921 times, and the baby squalls everytime. I don't blame the baby.

My mother says that there used to be a great many more babies than there are now, and she can remember when every family had six or seven. But my father says that was before the day of the automobile, and that nobody can afford to have a car and a baby, too, and that you can take your choice between them, because it takes about the same amount of money to run them. And my mother says, "Well, give me a runabout instead of the go-cart, besides they wouldn't let us live in a Desirable Apartment if we had a baby."

This is true, for if you will look you will see that those people who have 1914 model machines have no 1914 Babies.

LATEST STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were lower today and markets very dull. It has been years since speculation has been as dormant as now. Trading lacked features. It was as perfunctory as contracted. Early in the afternoon declines in New York included Canadian Pacific ¼, Southern Pacific ½, Missouri Pacific 1, Reading ¾, Lehigh Valley ¾, New Haven ½, American Can ⅛, Steel ⅜ and Amalgamated ⅜. American Smelting was up ¼. Union Pacific was unchanged.

In Boston American Telephone was up ⅛ and Granby ½, while among losses were Boston & Maine ½, New Haven ¼, Elevated ½, Butte & Superior 1⅛, United Fruit ½, Calumet & Arizona ¼ and Shoe ½.

MARKETS OPENED QUIET.

When stock markets reopened for the week there was little disposition to trade on either side and hesitancy had a depressing effect upon prices. The announcement came from Washington that the Interstate Commerce Commission would not decide the Eastern freight rate question for at least three days, and that a decision might not be rendered this week. This was a disappointment, as everybody expects stocks to stagnate until the verdict is announced. First hour transactions totalled but little above 30,000 shares.

Aside from uncertainty as to whether railroads are to be allowed to charge shippers more, the aspect of the mediation situation was not considered encouraging. It was questioned if Huerta was to be eliminated as dictator of Mexico as easily as the State Department expects. Attendance at commission houses was small and the public has never shown less interest in the market. It appears to be common opinion that after the rate case is disposed of there will be no bull factor in sight except the promise of a huge harvest.

While it is reported that sentiment is better in business circles, no more trade activity is reported. The steel industry awaits a rate case decision. It is hoped that plants will soon be operating on a 75 per cent. basis, if roads are granted the raise asked for. Plant operations are said to now average around 50 per cent. of possible productive capacity. But it is understand that even if they are allowed a 5 per cent. increase in freight rates, Eastern roads are not going to do any more equipment ordering than absolute needs warrant.

AMERICANS IN LONDON.

No change in the London market as far as American issues are concerned was reported. They were fairly steady but quiet, and by afternoon were irregular. It is understood that foreigners with American investments are worried over the Wilson anti-trust program, and believe that such a Federal Trade Commission as is proposed will damage corporation interests. The situation in Paris is troubled and excites nervousness elsewhere on the Continent, as well as in London. Speculation in Europe is said to be as moribund as in this country.

It was announced in New York this morning that one house had increased its shipment of gold to Paris by tomorrow's steamship from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000. This caused no surprise. Heavy shipments are expected this week. Since the first of the year Berlin has increased its gold reserves by $30,000,000 and such accumulations in Paris have grown $55,000,000 within that period. London has found it hard to retain much of the yellow metal that comes to that centre. Europeans are astounded at the indifference existing in New York as to gold exports. Saturday's bank statement showed that the cash surplus of New York banks had decreased almost $10,000,000 and it is thought in some quarters that before long money rates must harden. But there is so little demand for money for either trade of speculation that the prospect is giving little concern.

WASHINGTON THE CHIEF WORRY

The attitude of the Wilson administration toward great commercial and industrial interests is the chief cause of worry in Wall street and other capitalistic quarters. It was hoped by captains of industry and money moguls that political exigencies would induce Congress to close up shop early and go home without trying to pass more laws which were inspired in the White House. There are thirty-two Senators to be elected by popular vote in November, when for the first time in the history of the country membership of the upper branch of Congress is to be determined by the public. Senators seeking re-election want to get to their respective States and begin campaigning as soon as possible. But it is said it will take, at a conservative estimate, at least three months to put through the Wilson legislative program. Senator Warren is of the opinion that Congress will not adjourn before December 1. All this has been called to President Wilson's attention, but he is standing firm for passage of the laws he advocates at this session. He today told callers that just as far as his influence went he would press trust legislation at this session of Congress. He intimated that Congress would remain in session until September or October.

PRICES EASED OFF.

Taking markets as a whole the price tendency was downward during the morning and by noontime most active issues in New York were lower, while the Boston list was irregular, as at the start. Comparatively the local list was the firmest of the two throughout the morning. It averaged below the forenoon level later in the day, however. Most price changes in this and other markets were small. An exception in New York was American Sugar. It rose more than a point. This may have been due to the growth of belief that before May 1, 1916, when sugar is to go upon the free list, revenue needs may force Congress to repeal the clause taking all duty off this product. The government is likely to face a deficit of about $7,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year, with worse to come next year. The sugar tax put about $60,000,000 annually in the United States treasury in the past.

The United States Supreme Court handed down no decision today which affected stocks, and it adjourned for a week.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

The Boston bank statement shows that last week surplus reserve increased $682,145.

The London copper warrants market continued quiet and by noon spot was off 2s. 6d. and futures 1s. 3d.

Directors of W. D. Quimby & Co have declared a regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. on preferred stock, payable July 6 to stockholders of record July 1.

Greene-Cananea copper production in May last was 1,784,000 pounds, compared with 2,272,000 in the same 1913 month.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo is going to do all he can to prosecute persons who should pay an income tax and filed no return, and those who did not make a complete return. The Senate has voted to increase the appropriation for collecting an income tax from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000. Income tax returns indicate that the government is not going to get from this source much more than half of the amount the administration counted upon.

FORBES SEES REVIVAL OF NATION'S BUSINESS IN RATE DECISION

By B. C. FORBES.
Business Editor.

Accepting as correct the forecasts of a favorable railroad rate decision, I would predict a genuine revival in securities, in industry, in trade, in employment, based on these fundamental facts.

1—America's crops promise to be the most bountiful ever garnered in this or any other country; their value probably will be in excess of $10,000,000,000, equal to $100 for every man, woman and child in the land.

2—A helpful decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission would have an electrical effect upon the country's shattered confidence and would precipitate a demand for American securities both abroad and at home, thus enabling the railroads to procure millions of new capital, the expenditure of which would set many idle industries in motion giving work to hundreds of thousands of men now idle and comfort to families now suffering.

3—Money rates everywhere are low—a fact of tremendous underlying importance—and the heavy gold exports from New York to Europe need occasion no acute alarm.

CHAOTIC LEGISLATION.

4—The Wilson administration is betraying nervousness over the havoc its anti-business crusade has wrought and the expectation now is that the Senate will hesitate to do the President's bidding in regard to the rushing through of revolutionary, ill-baked, chaotic legislation aimed at upsetting the nation's economic machinery.

5—Financiers are counting upon one or other of these developments and laying much stress upon them. Either the Bryan policies will no longer be attempted by the administration, or if they are, there will be a Republican landslide which will block further corporation baiting.

6—The inauguration under capable management of the new federal reserve system will have marked sentimental effect and latter will facilitate enormous expansion if not downright inflation.

7—The approaching opening of the Panama Canal will prove stimulating.

8—Good securities are not selling at dizzy levels. The income yield on investment issues today is more generous than can ordinarily be obtained save in times of panic. Moreover, liquidation has been drastic and bad news has lately failed to shake the market. In Wall street parlance, "there is no speculative position open." Surplus stocks of merchandise everywhere are at an abnormally low ebb and a stampede for supplies may start at any moment.

9—The Supreme Court's "Shreveport" decision, curbing the powers of State commissions over even interstate railway traffic and giving the Interstate Commerce Commission full power over the whole flow of railway transportation, has greatly relieved railroad managers whose life has been plagued by embarrassing and often conflicting rulings by State bodies.

"BIG BUSINESS" CHANGES.

Mexico, you will observe, is not touched upon. Its future is still too uncertain to justify deductions one way or the other.

Business men are now to enter politics. Heretofore big business has dabbled—or dominated—in the field.

The business men will address themselves openly to the people.

The corporations had secret dealings with the politicians.

There is a significant difference.

Big business sought to gain its ends by the use or abuse of money, as the Hearst publications revealed in the case of Standard Oil and as has been disclosed with reference to the Southern Pacific out West and the New Haven in New England.

Business men now mean to use, not money, but argument, logic, education. They do not intend to work in the dark, but in the open.

The bane of politics in America heretofore has been that able, successful business men, engrossed in their own affairs and in money-making, have left the government to be carried on for the most part by self-seeking, lightweight politicians of no experience in the ordinary affairs of life, men who never demonstrated any conspicuous ability in administrating their own petty affairs.

As President Vanderlip of the National City Bank said: "Today business is practically unrepresented in Congress.

Such a situation does not make for healthy business, for national prosperity, for plentiful employment. In Great Britain, the most successful business nation the world has ever known, the members of Parliament are largely men who have distinguished themselves in some branch of industry or commerce, men who have demonstrated their fitness to handle big problems and to direct the energies of large bodies of men.

THE NEW COURSE.

The new course proposed by our business leaders, if adhered to with honesty of purpose and in a spirit of statesmanship and patriotism, should be productive of invaluable results, for we are today and have been for some time in danger of seeing this great, rich, vigorous, ambitious country haltered and crippled by the misdirected activities of neophytes.

Indeed, the full purpose of the insidious but insistent anti-business campaign carried on under the direction of certain Washington leaders has not been grasped by the public. The welfare of the people has been a motive secondary to the "getting even" with the men who have done more than most politicians in raising the United States to the high place it now holds among the industrial nations of the earth.

One day the true inwardness of the Bryan-McAdoo-Williams attack upon New York and her business giants may be laid bare.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN BOSTON JUNE 15, 1914

For This We Must Let England Rule Our Canal —and Dictate to the United States Congress

The American People and Their President Were Not So Easily Frightened in Years Gone By—When the Nation Was Small

> "The people of this country have had enough of pusillanimous pedagogues and vainglorious visionaries. They have had enough of unpatriotic and impractical theorists whose idea of courtesy to foreign peoples is disloyalty to our own. They have had enough of anaemic students of the outgrown past and unbalanced idealists of an impossible future."
>
> —From an interview with W. R. Hearst, cabled to the Berlin Vossische-Zeitung.

The people have had enough, and too much.

They will find a way to repudiate the pusillanimous pedagogy that demands and gets from Congress servile obedience to the orders of a foreign government.

The shameful surrender in the Panama Canal matter will be long remembered and thoroughly punished. And these politicians who sold themselves and their convictions will not get for long the price of their treachery.

Senator Borah, protesting against the shameful surrender to England and the railroads, expressed the feeling and determination of the American people in fourteen words:

> "You may give the Canal away, but the American people will take it back."

That is precisely what the American people WILL do, and servile politicians combining with pusillanimous pedagogy will not prevent it.

The people will "take the Canal back," and with it, by the way, they will take over the railroad business of the United States, manage it and relieve rascal financiers of responsibility and power.

It was bad enough for the railroads to bribe officials at home, loot railroads and practice domestic extortion.

But for gentlemen of the New York & New Haven brand of "honor" to dictate legislation, combine with Canadian Pacific stockholders to control legislation, and "give away the Canal," all in the name of sacred "honor," is a little too much.

It is notorious that some of the biggest animals are the most timid. An elephant shivers when he sees a mouse. A large, placid cow will race all around the lot while a small fox terrier barks at her.

And the United States, a large individual among nations, shivers like the mouse-fearing elephant at the mention of England's anger or a yarn about Japanese officials dining with Huerta.

You read, of course, the exciting, the terrifying, the dreadful dispatch that Nelson O'Shaughnessy sent to Mr. Wilson.

If you didn't read the dispatch, here it is:

> "The officers of the Japanese battleship will reach Mexico City next week and will be entertained in Mexico officially by Huerta and his government with extravagant expressions of welcome and friendship. The incident at this time is significant and unfortunate. I think I see in this carefully timed incident the fine hand of Sir Lionel Carden, the British Ambassador."

That, dearly beloved citizens of this large and easily frightened nation, is the dispatch that sent President Wilson hurrying to Congress to demand the repeal of the law giving the use of the Panama Canal to the American coastwise ships.

Just what the big elephant thinks when he sees the mouse and shivers and shakes and yells for his keeper we don't know. It would be difficult also to imagine what the college professor in the White House thought when he got the dispatch saying that some little brown Japanese gentlemen were going to take dinner with Huerta and probably tell him, after drinking enough champagne, that they hated the United States as much as he did.

We do not know what the President THOUGHT when he got that message, or what the elephant thinks when he sees the mouse, but we do know what the President DID.

He said to Congress, in substance, "Gentlemen, without asking whether it is right or wrong, I beg you to repeal at once the law granting free use of the Panama Canal to American coastwise ships. If you do not do this, I cannot undertake to carry on delicate negotiations, etc., etc."

His exact words were:

> "I have come to ask for the repeal of that provision of the Panama Canal Act of August 24, 1912, which exempts vessels engaged in the coastwise trade of the United States from payment of tolls. We ought to reverse our action without raising the question whether we were right or wrong.
>
> "I ask this of you in support of the foreign policy of the administration. I shall not know how to deal with other questions of even greater delicacy and nearer consequence if you do not grant it to me in ungrudging measure."

The President had warmly advocated free tolls for American coastwise shipping. He had pledged himself to the principle, saying to the farmers, "We want competition with the railroads. We don't want the railroads to compete among themselves. We know what that competition means."

But as soon as he got that frightful message about the little brown men dining with Huerta and "cussing out" the United States he went to Congress and said that the Free Toll law must be repealed—everything must be done to please England.

The idea was, of course, that if we didn't allow England to manage our Canal, England would refuse to prevent Japan from eating us up, and so the United States would have to be EATEN UP.

Is not that humiliating for this country? Is it not different from the attitude of the country and the Presidents of the United States in the old days, when there were only four millions of Americans on this continent?

We pity the shivering elephant, who thinks the mouse is going to eat him up, and trumpets for the keeper.

What do we think about ourselves, playing the part of the shivering elephant and trumpeting for help to England, even offering to let England rule our affairs and repeal our laws, when we see the Japanese mouse standing on his hind legs and making faces at us?

This will all seem amusing years from now, when people read in one short chapter of history about one gentleman breaking out of college and into the White House.

But it is more humiliating than amusing now.

If the elephant could understand English, the keeper observing him shivering and seeing the mouse would say, "Foolish elephant, put your foot on the mouse and forget him."

The Senate should have said to the President, "Timid President, attend to business, think more about American shipping and less about what England wants and forget the mouse that has frightened you."

However, humiliations have their uses. The Canal toll disgrace will do good in the end.

The country will realize that this country needs other guidance than that of pusillanimity. Politicians to be bought by patronage will be less numerous in the House and Senate.

And the people will hasten the day of government ownership of railroads, that the New York, New Haven & Hartford brand of "honor" may cease to rule in national affairs.

You can give away the Canal, but the people WILL TAKE IT BACK, and they will take the railroad system with it.

Owning the Canal AND the railroads, with a man in the White House not afraid of his shadow, the country will be grateful for the unpleasantness of today—destined to hasten progress in the future.

More Truth Than Poetry

No Place for Revelry

It might have occurred to those rollicking naval officers that a yacht called the Mayflower was hardly a fitting place for a saturnalia.

Some Job!

PROGRESSIVES WILL FORCE COLONEL TO RUN.—Headline.

They'll have to work as hard as the New Haven directors did to force Mr. Morgan to buy the Westchester for the New Haven.

Cooler; with Possibly a Frost

Mr. Wilson is to take part in the Pennsylvania Senatorial campaign, which does not promise to be as hot as it once did.

Ideal Candidate

If William Rockefeller can prove that he cannot speak above a whisper he ought to make a splendid run for the United States Senate.

Hopeless

Congress might as well make up its mind once for all that it can't please the President and the country at the same time.

Infallible Test

If John D. is still in doubt about that mysterious stranger who invaded his estate let him show him a woodpile. If he attacks it he isn't an I. W. W.

Cause and Consequence

Avoiding the temptation to make a rhyme we may state that in our opinion a true bill would be an appropriate chaser for one of those New Haven due bills.

Where Explanations Are in Order

He had better explain to America first.

A Deed Worthy of His Prowess

Let us hope the war may be deferred till the Colonel organizes a regiment that he can lead on the charge up Mt. Popocatapetl.

She Never Had a Chance

It is not surprising that Mrs. Bernard Shaw doesn't talk much. How could she ever get any practice?

Science vs. Romance

Remembering what Dewey did after he cut the cable we can almost regret the invention of ocean wireless.

This Should Be Looked Into

If prayers are worth even half as much as the New Haven paid for them the Jersey judge who freed a man in return for a promise of a prayer came dangerously near violating the law against bribery.

This Would Settle It!

Suggestion for plan of defence against militants, made by Winsor McCay, who doesn't believe that the bulldogs recently pressed into service will be effective.

Women and Children First.

WHEN the New Haven looters went out on a raid
  No man had a fear that his wealth
Might be taken away, ere the break of next day,
  By violence, plunder or stealth.
For the widows and orphans that owned all the stock
  Could only protest, at the worst,
So the song that the gang sympathetic'ly sang
  Was: "WOMEN AND CHILDREN FIRST!"

THERE never was cause for alarm in the Street
  That business might totter and fall
When the New Haven crew sauntered craftily through
  With an eye for another big haul.
No panic-struck bucketshop went into hock,
  No stock-gambling broking house burst;
No man felt afraid of the buccaneer's raid—
  It was "WOMEN AND CHILDREN FIRST!"

FOR widows are feeble and children are weak,
  And taking their money away
Involves not a chance in the game of finance
  That the captains of industry play
The grafters, contractors and heelers were there,
  While the profits were being disbursed,
And the swag was passed round to the musical sound
  Of "WOMEN AND CHILDREN FIRST!"

Not Under the Rules

Sir—I am told that a bug discovered in Venezuela infects human beings with jags when he bites them. Cannot these be domesticated and employed as pets on battleships? ADMIRAL.

To Stall Off the Johnnies

All German actresses, whether married or not, are to be called "Frau" on the theatre programs. Which shows that the stage door nuisance is rampant in Berlin as in Boston.

Utilitarian

Perhaps the Billard Company's excuse for cleaning up $2,700,000 of New Haven money was that New Haven money certainly needed cleaning up.

Tempering the Law

The man who was sent to the penitentiary for fifteen years for marrying sixteen women probably got an exemption for the first three by some judge who had been trying income tax cases.

What Will the Poor Girl Do Then, Poor Thing?

One feminist writer says a girl gets a proposal on the average of one a year, and the other tells her not to accept till she gets 100 offers. Supposing both are right!

A Newspaper Acquaintance, at Least

We do not recognize Huerta, but we can say to him as John Sullivan said to the Prince of Wales: "We've heard of you!"

Buy Them, Next Time

Sir—I applied to my Congressman for a package of brunette hair seeds, which when planted came up blond. Blond does not match my eyebrows. What had I better do? BALD HEAD.

Base Ingratitude!

The rent of the American Embassy in London, which must come out of the Ambassador's pocket, is to be raised. And after all Mr. Page has done for England, too!

Questions Answered

J. M.—The discoverer of the Pacific Ocean was Vasco Nunez de Balboa. On the early morning of the 25th of September, 1513, Balboa, with a small party of men, made their laborious way up the densely covered face of a steep ridge from the summit of which they were rewarded with the vision of the Great "South Sea" which, up to that time, had never been seen by the eye of a white man.

P. C. J.—Hungary has been completely subject to Austria for only about sixty-two years. The Archduke Albrecht was sent to Pest in 1851 as civil and military governor, but it was not until the visit of the Emperor to Hungary in 1852 that the real Austrian domination began. The whole of Hungary was then reduced to a province of the Austrian Empire and fell under the direct control of the central government ~ Vienna.

Homemaking — Too Many Women Swathe Bodies in Fine Dainty Raiment, But Leave Their Abodes in Wild, Squalid Disorder

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company

A WOMAN whose perfection of fashionabe attire might have served as a model for the "Daily Hint from Paris," asked acquaintances she had made at a friend's house to call. When these acquaintances called they were surprised to find a poorly furnished home, whose every corner cried of disorder. Littered tables; books awry, and tattered magazines on shelves. Rugs with curling corners; dust and desolation everywhere.

No spirit of home to be felt or seen anywhere.

Another woman, whose devotion to her church was so great that she could scarcely converse five minutes on any other subject than her own particular brand of orthodox religion, and whose labors in the interests of foreign missions made her a delight to that organization, lived in a house which might have been Pandora's Box; for confusion and disorder filled it from cellar to attic.

There were no soft draperies at its windows; no feminine touches on tables or dressers; no easy lounges or chairs; and not one object which pleased the eye or appealed to the mind or heart.

A tent upon the desert would have seemed more homelike than this house.

A young woman whose occupation was art work, and her specialty "interior decoration," lived in a home of ugliness and disorder.

All these women believed themselves to be good women; they would have resented an accusation of immorality.

Yet there is an element of immorality in disorder.

Order was heaven's first law, we are told.

The Great Creator of our solar systems must have observed this law with great exactness, or chaos would reign now.

There can be no real satisfaction in the association with a woman who is disorderly in her habits and in her home.

No matter if she be a paragon of virtues, and a marvel of talent, and an angel of unselfishness in her impulses, she is not a thoroughly good woman if her home lacks order, cleanliness and comfort. There is an element of the crude savage in a woman who decorates her person with fashionable and expensive attire, and who neglects her home. She is but a few degrees removed from the squaw who emerges from a squalid tent attired in a red blanket, and decked with bright beads and much paint. Or the Bedouin woman who lives in a cave cut in the side of some old decaying wall, or who roams from tent to tent, driven forth by vermin, but always swathing herself in artistic folds of drapery and hanging savagely beautiful chains of strange jewels on throat and arms.

Unless the home-making instinct has developed in a woman, unless she strives to make her abode clean, neat and atractive to the eye, she is undeveloped and uncultured, even though she be a graduate of a dozen colleges and an oracle of wisdom.

The real home-making instinct is the most needed quality in the feminine world today, and it is rarely met with.

There are countless homes which exhibit the upholsterer's taste and indicate a lavish expenditure of money.

A man recently was describing a home which had been prepared for a bride whose husband possessed large means.

"There was not one suggestion of a HOME in the house," he said. "It was all like a cafe or hotel."

Great fortunes are not needed to make a home.

Much love, some taste, and a little money will produce a home which is a miniature paradise.

The woman who cares enough about her abode to give it thought can find a hundred helpful hints in any and every monthly and weekly periodical in the land, and with a few simple, inexpensive materials, a few plants, a cautious approach toward color schemes and much care in order and cleanliness, and a prayer always in her heart that she may found a home which is an expression of love and peace and comfort for its occupants she cannot fail.

Once a woman has established such a home she has found the greatest career which has ever been opened to woman or ever will be. She has made a success of her life.

The disorderly and untidy and uncomfortable home bespeaks a woman who is a failure in life, no matter what she may have done. Order is heaven's first law and woman's first duty.
